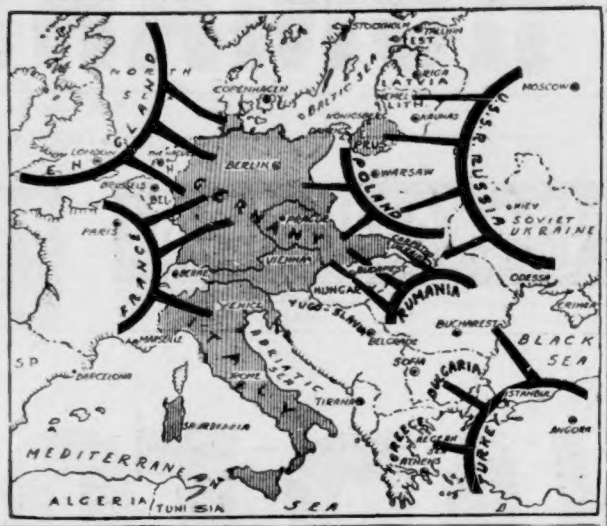
'NO U. S. WAR'---F. D. PLEDGE



Black "guns" on map show possible alignment of Great Britain, France, Russia, Poland, Rumania and Turkey as a "stumbling" block to Adolf Hitler in Germany's eastward advance.

(President Roosevelt called members of the Senate Military Affairs Committee to the White House for a secret discussion of defense needs during committee consideration of the $358,000,000 army expansion bill. At this meeting he spoke plainly of the danger of war in Europe and of the necessity for a defense program that would insure this nation against any threat of Western Hemisphere invasion. His conversation with the committee is now playing a part in the controversy developing over the administration's new proposal for a neutrality law.)

WASHINGTON, March 21 (INS)—President Roosevelt, at his now famous secret conference with the Senate military affairs committee, declared without reservation that his administration would never permit American military forces to go to war on behalf of any foreign country not in the western hemisphere.

He told the senators that the United States must and does stand with the European democracies against totalitarian aggression, but that if actual war comes, this country's only interest will be to keep clear of the conflict.

(International News Service in another exclusive dispatch by Robert Nixon, says that the President has notified Britain and France that the United States is ready to supply munitions to the democracies in event of a general European war, but that he has refused any commitment for a direct military alliance.)

(This pledge of direct aid to Britain and France, if they are forced to war with Adolf Hitler's German Reich, was conditioned upon Congress repealing the existing embargo upon shipment of munitions.)

Meanwhile, the text of the American reply to the German note telling of the Czech coup was handed to the German ambassador. The note repeated the scathing denunciation made March 17. (Details on page 10.)

International News Service learned the secrets of the Senate conference from a participant in that now famous gathering. This informant's words were cited by supporters of the new proposal for a "cash-and-carry" neutrality law.

Senator Pittman (D.) of Nevada, chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee, introduced the neutrality legislation, and it will come before his committee for preliminary consideration tomorrow.

The neutrality resolution gathered bi-partisan support immediately upon introduction but it faces stiff opposition. The strict isolationists, such as Senators Johnson (R.) of California; Borah (R.), of Idaho, and others, were preparing to demand repeal of all existing neutrality legislation as an alternative to the Pittman measure.

Pittman denied charges of discrimination. He said that while his resolution naturally would help any nation able to maintain control over the seas, and send ships to America to haul munitions away, it was strictly a measure for American neutrality.

"I drafted this bill for America, and for no other country," Pittman said.

German Shot by Rumanian Jew; New Nazi Crisis Near

BUCHAREST, March 21 (AP)—The shooting of a German citizen by a Jew at Brasov caused concern today in the Rumanian capital, where King Carol has taken the lead in a Balkan struggle to escape complete German political and economic domination.

The German was reported in a grave condition.

Some sources believed Germans might regard the shooting at Brasov, 100 miles northwest of Bucharest, as an "international incident."

The wounded German, Dr. Hjalmar Krarzt, had gone to a Jewish community house at Brasov, reorts said, and an argument between him and the doorman's wife developed, whereupon her husband appeared and shot him. Dr. Krarzt was taken to a hospital.

Officials meanwhile said trade discussions with Germany would not be concluded for several days.

Rumania, they said, had not granted Germany any monopolistic right, but instead would adhere to a free commercial policy.

As for Hungary, Germany's anti-Comintern pact partner, authorities said Rumania's relations with that state were "as good as could be expected." However, a spokesman added that Rumania was prepared to defend every inch of her territory and regarded the present frontier with Hungary as final.

Rumanian London Envoy Flies Home in Crisis

LONDON, March 21 (INS)—Viorel Virgil Tilea, Rumanian minister to London, was hurriedly summoned back to Bucharest today for consultation.

He is expected to leave by airplane tomorrow, presumably to advise his government as to progress of the scheme for a joint declaration against Nazi imperialism.

BRITAIN ASKS BIG 4 HALT-HITLER PACT

LONDON, March 21 (AP)—Britain today asked Soviet Russia and Poland to sign a "halt Hitler" declaration binding them to "consult as to action they would take" in case of further German expansion attempts.

The "final draft of the declaration," authoritative British sources said, also had been brought to the attention of Rumania, Turkey, Greece, Yugoslavia and Bulgaria.

They stressed that it would not operate where Germany and Lithuania made a deal over Memel, which was German territory before the post-war settlement.

LEBRUN IN LONDON

It was designed to counter German action against non-Germanic territory, they said.

Meanwhile, President Albert Lebrun of France reached England for a three-day state visit which assumed significance because it coincided with increasing British-French collaboration in the face of German expansion.

Foreign Minister Bonnet, who accompanied President and Mme. Lebrun, was expected to have important conversations with Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax.

The French President and his wife are repaying the state visit of King George and Queen Elizabeth to Paris last summer.

SOVIET URGES ACTION

They arrived as the British government, reverting to the policy of collective security, became the rallying point for nations that

GUARDED—Virginia Field, often called the most beautiful English film actress, had her Hollywood home under guard today after a mysterious man called her on the phone and threatened to "get" her.

Scituate Child Dies Trapped by Flames

SCITUATE, March 21—Beaten back repeatedly by smoke and flames, a father and mother sought vainly today to save their son, Robert Turner, Jr., five, trapped in his bedroom by a fire which swept the second floor of the Turner home in Old Country Way, in the Egypt section of this town.

The father, himself a fireman, continued his heroic rescue attempts until the fire department arrived. Others then tried to make their way to the boy, but were forced to retreat in spite of protecting smoke masks.

Finally a "call" fireman, Thomas Curran, went up a ladder on the outside and, without a mask, entered the boy's fire-surrounded room. He found the boy's foot caught in the bed, and carried him, mattress and all, to a window and down the ladder. Fire Lieutenant Philip Litchfield had tried it before and was overcome.

Curran's heroism was too late; the boy was suffocated.

Also dead was the boy's closest friend—his Chow dog.

The tragedy took place in the early morning hours. Robert Turner, the father, was asleep in a front room. Robert, Jr., and his sister, Gretchen, in a room at the middle of the apartment. Mrs. Laura Turner, the mother, was in the kitchen.

Mrs. Turner started to fill the oil reservoir of the kitchen stove when it flared, showering flames around the room. Screaming, she dashed into the children's room, seized Gretchen and fled from the house.

By the time the father was aroused, the fire had swept through the flat, blocking entrance to the boy's room.

MALDEN BOWLING ALLEY OWNER IS BEATEN, ROBBED

Three hours after the clubbing and attempted robbery of a Revere woman, a gunman and two companions held up John Kemp, 24, Malden bowling alley proprietor, and brutally beat and robbed him today.

MRS. ANNIE WEISBERG
Beaten by Robber

Kemp was ambushed by the trio in Middlesex street, Malden, within sight of his home on Sherman street. The leader of the bandits slugged him on the head with the butt of a gun, and the others tore $39.45 from his pockets.

Police said Kemp's description of the leader of the robbers matched that of a gunman who fired at Mrs. Annie Weisberg, 42, during an attempt to rob her variety store at Endicott avenue and Atlantic street, Revere.

Belgium to Arrest 700 in Gold Thefts

BRUSSELS, March 21 (AP)—The Belgian government disclosed today 700 arrests were expected in a vast gold theft conspiracy between Negro workers and white traders in the Belgian Congo.

It is said that an average of 4000 pounds of raw gold, valued at about $2,000,000, had been stolen yearly for many years at mines

Elliott Roosevelt For Garner in 1940

FORT WORTH, Tex., March 21 (INS)—Elliott Roosevelt, son of the President, today viewed Vice-President John Garner as the most likely candidate at the present time for the 1940 Democratic presidential nomination. He devoted nearly half of a 15-minute transcribed radio program to Garner last night.

Contempt Trio Denied Bail Plea

Judge Louis F. Cox of the Massachusetts Supreme court refused to order release on bail of a Boston police officer and two constables, committed to Charles street jail last week for alleged perjury in a Suffolk probate court divorce suit.

The three jailed men, Traffic Officer Robert F. Warren and Constables William Tepper and Joseph Herman, were cited for contempt by Judge John V. Mahoney.

He sentenced them to 30 days' confinement.

Judge Cox today took under advisement a petition for a writ of error in the contempt proceedings.

Agrees to Pay Wife; Freed From Jail Cell

After the first hour he wasn't so sure. After the second he got to thinking maybe he had made a mistake, and, along about the end of the third hour, he was sure of it, so—

William F. Skehan, a State Public Works Department engineer who yesterday went to jail rather than pay his wife $10 a week and back payments of $130, is free today.

Skehan, who flatly told Judge John C. Leggat in Middlesex probate court that he wouldn't give his wife, Mrs. Mary C. Skehan, of Watertown, the money, was released sometime during the night. Sheriff John McElroy would only say:

"Satisfactory financial arrangements have been made."

At the State Public Works Department Skehan, who lives in Dorchester, simply said:

"From now on I keep my affairs to myself."

He was ordered to pay Mrs. Skehan $10 a week separate support last May

BRRR!

H-h-hello, S-s-spring!

Excuse our shivers. But thanks, anyhow, for the blue sky and the sunshine.

Swell weather for maple sugar harvesters—and ski addicts!

And the rest of us, happily conscious of the anti-freeze in our auto radiators, will cheerfuly wait and hope.

Today might have been worse, of course. A couple of years ago, a March 21 snowstorm hid most of northern New England shoveling itself out of drifts.

Then last year, Spring, old pal, you came with flowers in your hair and balmy zephyrs in your wake. A summery 68 was the day's top temperature, with the sun shining 94 per cent of the time from dawn to dusk.

So what if today it was below freezing when you made your Boston bow, Spring, at 7:29 a. m.?

Give you time, Spring, and you'll bring us violets and April showers, just as always.

Glad to see you, anyhow, Spring, old pal.

But excuse our shivers.

First Lady Visits Golden Gate Fair

SAN FRANCISCO, March 21 (AP)—America's first lady, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, paused an extra day here to see Treasure Island and the Golden Gate International Exposition like an ordinary citizen today.

She hoped to go on foot, unattended by official committees and unrecorded by reporters and photographers, to visit the exhibits.

Links Newton Relief Agent in Girl Attack

While their father, a soldiers' relief recipient, was in the Chelsea Soldiers' Home, an investigator for the Newton soldiers' relief department attacked one of the veteran's three motherless daughters.

This was charged by Alderman Frank T. McCabe, retired army major, at the weekly meeting of the Newton aldermen, in a renewal of McCabe's feud with Mayor Edwin O. Childs over soldiers' relief administration.

The attack, Major McCabe charged, was committed by Mayor Childs' "Stooge No. 3," who himself is a veteran receiving soldiers' relief from Newton and also federal compensation.

BAKES $105 WEEK INCOME

McCabe further told his aldermanic colleagues that in 1938 "Stooge No. 3" received from the Newton Soldiers' Relief Department a total of $4915.52, or an average of $94.52 a week, and from the federal government $570, an average of $10.96 a week—a grand average total of $105.48 a week.

This is more, said McCabe, than the mayor or the city solicitor received in 1938 as salary.

Major McCabe launched his drive against soldiers' relief administration two weeks ago when he charged that "Stooge No. 3" and his assistant, "Stooge No. 3A" were countenanced by Mayor Childs and that the "stooges" had railroaded the veteran father of the three girls to a hospital as mentally unbalanced.

Then, it was charged by McCabe, "a housekeeper was hired to take charge of the house and the girls, a girl assistant was hired for the housekeeper, 'Stooge 3A' moved in as 'caretaker for the housekeeper' and 'Stooge No. 3' was a frequent visitor."

ATTACK FOILED

The attack on the eldest of the three daughters occurred last Thanksgiving night, Major McCabe charged.

"Fortunately this attack was stopped by a witness," he said. "There are other details of what happened, which I prefer not to mention.

"I ask any of you gentlemen and citizens of Newton — how would you like to have your daughter subjected to the ministrations of these two veterans who are self-feeding as far as city funds are concerned and who have the full protection of the mayor?"

N. H. Signs Papers to Get Howland

CONCORD, N. H., March 21 (AP)—Governor Francis P. Murphy today signed extradition papers for John H. Howland, 25-year-old ex-convict, alleged slayer of Miss Maude Horne of Milton.

Howland is being held at Corpus Christi, Tex., with his young cousin, Aida Butler, 15.

It was expected that Sheriff Clyde Cotton, County Solicitor John Bemis and a police matron would make the trip, with a warrant charging Howland with Miss Horne's murder on February 3.

Douglas Family Life Unchanged

WASHINGTON, March 21 (AP)—Mrs. William O. Douglas decided today that her husband's appointment to the Supreme Court would make no change in their family's informal way of living.

She said that she would continue playing badminton three or four times a week—she played yesterday just after she received word of her husband's nomination—and that the family would keep their rented house in suburban Silver Springs, Md.

Speedy O.K. was seen in the Senate for the 40-year-old former head of the Securities Exchange Commission and youngest Supreme Court appointee since 1811.

Slender, blonde and blue-eyed, Mrs. Douglas is the mother of two children, Mildred, nine, and William, Jr., who will be seven next month.

"Most of my time goes to keeping house and being with the children," she said.

NEW TAXES HIT POOR, IS CHARGE

The proposal of Governor Saltonstall and Tax Commissioner Henry F. Long to tax cigarettes and raise the gasoline tax is "just another attempt to soak the poor," the legislative committee on taxation was told today.

Crowds jammed the tax hearing and overflowed into the corridors as opponents hammered at the proposals, the day being devoted chiefly, however, to the cigarette tax of 2 cents on a package of 20.

Samuel Silverman, former Boston corporation counsel and representing tobacconists and retail druggists throughout the state, asserted the proposed tax was a "soak the poor" measure.

SEES HARM TO TRADE

"Cigarettes," he said, "are as important to some individuals as medicine. It is a fallacy that cigarette smoking is a luxury. Such a tax would drive some wholesalers and retailers out of business in Massachusetts."

Tax Commissioner Long, who urged a cigarette tax and increase in the gasoline tax one more cent, told the committee the proposed cigarette tax alone would bring an estimated added revenue of $8,000,000.

The burden of collecting the tax would fall on his department, he said, and he estimated the collection cost at not more than 4 per cent, or $320,000, for collecting.

Each cigarette vending machine in the state, Long said, would be licensed at $1 a year and fines would be levied for unlicensed machines.

While Long was addressing the committee, a parade of automobiles, with three horse-and-buggy rigs bringing up the rear, ended in front of the State House.

Banners proclaimed that "another tax on gasoline will drive us back to the horse and buggy days."

James N. Keefe of Lawrence was in charge of the demonstration.

When Senator Nicholson of Wareham, member of the committee, asked Long why cigarettes alone, and not smoking tobacco and cigars, were singled out for a tax, Long replied a tax on tobacco and cigars would be too difficult to regulate.

SAYS FEW CIGARS SOLD

Also, said the commissioner, for every cigar there are 100 packages of cigarettes sold.

Andrew Kerr of Cape Cod, representing the Massachusetts Farm Bureau Federation, recorded his organization in favor of a cigarette tax, but in opposition to a general sales tax.

Also favoring a cigarette tax were T. R. Flynn, executive secretary of the Apartment House Owners' Association and Catherine T. Smith, secretary of the Massachusetts League of Women Voters.

Miss Smith said her organization favors a tax "because we don't consider cigarettes a necessity of life."

FOR REALTY RELIEF

Flynn advocated that cigarette tax money be earmarked for relief of real estate owners, asserting "they are broke and it's about time they got a break."

Several state represeneatives were recorded in opposition to the cigarette tax, and Lawrence A. Haworth of Lee said that in his town, where the chief industry is the manufacture of cigarette papers, such a tax would injure the industry. He carried 276 letters from Lee citizens, all opposing the measure.

Representative Harry Kalus of Boston assailed both the proposed cigarette and gasoline levies as nothing more than sales taxes.

"Why not tax intangibles, stocks and bonds?" he asked. "Massachusetts has become the haven for tax dodgers and five-sixths of wealth is removed from taxation.

"Instead of taxing cigarettes, a necessity, why not tax wealth represented by stocks and bonds?"

GAS TAX BLASTED—Lineup of cars and horse'n'buggy is brought to State House by Massachusetts Federation of Automobile Association Clubs as protest against proposed one cent a gallon gasoline tax increase. The idea, the Federation explains, is to show the State is tending toward the old horse'n'buggy days because of mounting taxes. Boston Evening American Photo

Beam Halts Car In 30-Ft. Plunge

Ripping through a barricade and warning signals today, an automobile plunged into the open Boylston street, Back Bay, railroad bridge, now under repair.

John R. Louko

The car crashed upside down on the girders, and only its front bumper and rear tire prevented it from plunging to the Boston & Albany tracks, 30 feet below.

The driver, police said, was John R. Louko, 44, of Quincy avenue, Norwood. He crawled from the car to a beam of the bridge, crept along the girder to safety, then reported the accident to officers of the Back Bay police station near by.

Louko, uninjured except for the shakeup and shock, said he noticed the red lanterns but thought the construction consisted of a ditch at the side of the street.

The street surface of the bridge is being rebuilt as a WPA project.

Purge in Revere Cited by Riley

Revere's political "purge" today became a factor in the reinstatement hearing of Frank E. Riley, of Swampscott, ousted head of the state commercial motor vehicles division.

Riley, resuming the stand to fight 17 ouster charges brought against him by the state department of public utilities, testified that he had granted permits to three Revere dump truck owners in January because their competitors had no chance of getting city contracts from the new Revere administration headed by Mayor Lawrence Gillis.

"Mayor Gillis called me on the telephone," Riley testified, "and adsked me to grant the permits to the new men as he was not going to give any work to the men who operated during Mayor O'Brien's administration."

Counsel for the commission last week introduced testimony showing that Riley, a resident of Swampscott, arbitarily gave permits to the new operators without giving their competitors an opportunity to protest at a public hearing.

Attorney James F. Harrington of Boston, who had served as counsel for the protesting Revere truck owners, was criticized by Riley for having allegedly written to four Fall River firms in another case, suggesting that they appear at the division of Commercial Motor Vehicles to protect their rights against "political pressure."

DEFENDS BROTHER IN KILLING

PROVIDENCE, March 21—An attractive young widow, still in mourning, took the witness stand here today to defend the man blamed in her husband's death.

He is her brother, Samuel E. Christofaro, 23, of Friendship st. Judge Luigi de Pasquale held in $5000 on a charge of manslaughter.

Assistant City Solicitor Edward J. McQuaide told the court that the husband, Edgar DeShales, 33, WPA employe and lay preacher, died of injuries received in a scuffle with Christofaro after the latter found DeShales drinking and tried to take him home.

Mrs. Ida DeShales, the widow, testified today that there was no hard feeling between her brother and her husband.

DeShales' death occurred March 9. His skull was fractured when he hit his head against a curbing, after being knocked down, police charged.

4 Children Die In New York Fires

NEW YORK, March 21 (INS)—Fires that swept two Manhattan tenements left a death toll of four children today while a fifth is suffering from serious burns and three other youngsters are recovering from smoke and shock. The children were found dead in their cribs.

Callahan's 7 Words Spike 1940 Rumors

Reports he might be a candidate for governor in 1940 were dismissed by Public Works Commissioner William F. Callahan in a brief, seven-word statement today.

"No comment," he said. "I am not in politics."

2 HUSBANDS GET JAIL TERMS FOR NEGLECT

Jail doors opened today for two husbands who forgot to remember to support their families. The husbands were arraigned before Judge Timothy J. Ahern in Roxbury court.

One was Angelo Militari, 36, of Tilton street, erstwhile barber, whose wife, Marie, now living with her parents on Main street, Everett, told the court all she received from their 11 years of marriage was $7 in cash and the promise of a fortune if "he ever made a hit on the dogs and horses."

"I won't accept a probationary sentence," said Militari, when he testified in his own defense after his wife told her story of alleged neglect. "That would be an admission of guilt. I want to appeal."

The court gave him a six months' sentence and he went to jail for lack of a $500 appeal bond.

The second husband was Hugh Powderly, whose wife and five children live in Heath street, Roxbury. Powderly had surrendered himself earlier today on a non-support warrant taken out a year and a half go.

"I just couldn't make a go of it," he told the judge. "I went to Philadelphia and drove a truck. Then I went to Detroit, New Orleans, and Phoenix, Ariz. I thumbed my way back."

Mrs. Powderly testified he had not supported his family for two years. The children are Mary, 10; Geraldine, 8; Barbara, 5; Daniel 4, and Patricia, 3.

Powderly was sentenced to a year in the House of Correction.

TRUCKMEN STRIKE IN LAWRENCE

While Gov. William Vanderbilt strove today to settle Rhode Island's trucking strike, Massachusetts authorities were absorbed with labor troubles at Worcester and Lawrence.

With Rhode Island state police forbidding strikers to halt trucks at the state borders, a drivers' delegation met with Gov. Vanderbilt at Providence to resume negotiations broken up without settlement last night.

At Lawrence 70 drivers for five firms walked out with the demand for higher wages. Officials said the strike was not connected directly with the Rhode Island dispute.

At Worcester, truck owners agreed to halt individual action and gave John F. Curran, chairman of the owners' negotiating committee, full power to act for them in conferences with truck drivers.

Union officials said 12 of 80 operators in central Massachusetts had signed a new agreement and that the strike troubles were headed for an early settlement.

As Governor Vanderbilt was urging the strike settlement in Rhode Island, the operators' committee met to consider latest developments.

Strikers continued to picket main highways but respected orders of state police to halt no trucks. Eleven strikers who were held for hours after stopping merchandise were allowed to go.

CIO Union Pickets Sausage Strike Plants

More than 60 pickets were thrown around six large meat packing plants today by the United Packing House Workers Union (CIO) in an effort to enforce demands for higher wages, shorter hours and a closed shop contract.

The plants, producing about 60 per cent of the "hot dogs" consumed in Greater Boston, employ more than 650 persons.

Jesse Prosten, union organizer, said that although the plants were open, pickets had stopped the movement of products from all of them. Employers, he said, had made no proposals, and pending word from them, the plants would be picketed.

The union seeks a minimum wage of 50 cents an hour for men, 40 cents for women, a 40-hour work week and time and a half for overtime from the plants producing cured meats, sausages and frankfurters.

U. S. Income Tax Declines 30 P. C.

WASHINGTON, March 21 (AP)—The Treasury announced today it collected $473,122,052 of income taxes in the first 20 days of March, fulfilling budget estimates.

Although collections were about 30 per cent less than last year, because of the business recession which sharply curtailed 1938 income—on which first installment payments were due March 15—the figures appeared slightly more than necessary to fulfill the estimates in President Roosevelt's January budget message.

HALT!—Rhode Island truck strike pickets stop truck on its way into the state. Driver was on his way home and was passed. Two peace moves were to take place in the Rhode Island crisis today, while a similar strike was threatening in Massachusetts.

FIND TWO GAME RAID WITNESSES

Two witnesses, one a woman, were found today by police in their investigation into the holdup of a dice and poker game Saturday night near Jackson square, Roxbury.

Four bandits, believed to be the gunmen who shot and killed John Wheelock in a Malden game a month ago, and fatally wounded Patrick ("Paddy") Flynn, his bodyguard, robbed between 35 and 40 men of from $8000 to $10,000 in the Roxbury game.

A woman living in the Columbus avenue block where the club was held up, told police she heard what she thought was a fight in the club Saturday night, and also heard cars leaving.

The other witness is a Jackson square filling station attendant who found an automobile, with tires flat, in the station when he reported for work Sunday.

Economy Bloc To Battle WPA

WASHINGTON, March 21 (INS)—A House economy bloc today threatened defeat of President Roosevelt's request for an emergency $150,000,000 WPA appropriation as the battle moved toward a showdown.

Serious defection was disclosed in a partial canvass of House sentiment, with compromise proposals ranging from $75,000,000 to $112,500,000 being proposed.

Rabbi Tells F.D. Of London Talk

WASHINGTON, March 21 (AP)—Ribbi Stephen S. Wise of New York told President Roosevelt today that Jews the world over appreciated his "fine understanding and concern and deep sympathy" in connection with efforts to aid Jewish refugees.

The Jewish leader had just returned from London where he attended the conference on Palestine for the Zionist Organization of America. He said he gave the President his personal impressions of the conference.

MILLIONS OF PEOPLE

have an Interest in this Financial Statement

YOU—THE PUBLIC — At any time you may be a claimant against a Liberty Mutual policyholder as the result of an automobile accident or in connection with your duties in business as an employee. Therefore, you have a direct and personal interest in the financial security of Liberty Mutual. For, rightly, you want prompt, full payment of your fair claims for damages. Furthermore, you want to avoid injury; thus you also benefit from the work Liberty Mutual is doing to prevent accidents in manufacturing plants, stores, on construction jobs, and on the highways. Finally, as an insurance buyer you benefit through Liberty Mutual's ability to live well within its income and, under its strictly mutual plan of operation, return substantial cash dividends to policyholders. As a policyholder you would have shared in the total dividends of $68,000,000 which have been returned since organization twenty-seven years ago.

MORE THAN 2,000,000 WORKING MEN AND WOMEN

— These are the employees of Liberty Mutual's Workmen's Compensation Insurance policyholders. They know from personal experience the value of Liberty Mutual's specialized accident prevention service provided by 185 safety engineers. Every day, wherever men and women work, this service is saving crippling injuries and lives. But should these men and women, through some human error, sustain an injury, they want their families, themselves, their homes, and their savings protected. They want to be promptly and fairly compensated for injuries incurred as a result of their employment, and to receive sympathetic attention. Thus Liberty Mutual's resources assume a vital meaning: In times of distress — security; at their daily jobs — safety.

MORE THAN 170,000 CAR OWNERS—These are the automobile policyholders of Liberty Mutual whose savings, incomes and homes have been safeguarded; who have been saved from the worry, bother, and legal expense which accompany even minor automobile accidents. They have secured this sound protection at a substantial saving, year after year, In Massachusettts alone, for example, Liberty Mutual has returned more than $7,000,000 in cash dividends on all classes of automobile insurance to its policyholders since compulsory insurance became effective in 1927.

MORE THAN 25,000 BUSINESS MEN—These are the buyers of Workmen's Compensation Insurance. They place a high value on the friendship and welfare of their workers. They want their people to be safe. If accidents do occur, they want their people compensated promptly, courteously, fully. They also want their employees to receive effective, adequate, and desired care, so they may return promptly to work. These employers also want to save money because the cost of compensation insurance is a substantial item in their overhead expense.

To accomplish these things, Liberty Mutual was organized in 1912 by a group of Massachusetts business men. They reasoned that by preventing accidents, losses could be cut down. Fewer losses would mean fewer claims to pay, with substantial savings in premium rates. In addition, by careful underwriting and economical operating methods, Liberty Mutual has returned a second saving in the form of cash dividends. To these business men, therefore, our financial statement reflects the success of a sound insurance idea — with large benefits to their employees and themselves.

CARDINAL NEARING ALGIERS

ABOARD MOTORSHIP VULCANIA, March 21—William Cardinal O'Connell enjoyed smooth seas and sunny skies as the motorship Vulcania, bearing him back from his mission at Rome, neared Algiers.

The Cardinal took his customary walk on deck and renewed his friendship with Captain Nestore Martinoli and his staff on the Vulcania.

After brief stops at Gibraltar and the Azores, the Vulcania will head for New York, where she is scheduled to dock on March 30.

Peace Plea to Pope Made by Canterbury

LONDON, March 21 (INS)—The Archbishop of Canterbury today suggested that Pope Pius XII choose this moment of high international tension for the issuance of a declaration for peace.

In a speech before the House of Lords the primate of the Anglican church declared:

"It is obvious that His Holiness is entitled to choose his own time and way but, if he is willing to make such a declaration, I could promise him that all leaders of the Orthodox, Anglican and Protestant churches would give simultaneous support."

When told by the Boston Evening American of his luck, Charles Parenteau of Douglas street, South Boston, a railroad mail clerk, said:

"We're tickled pink! My wife and I can use the money for our vacation trip to the World's Fair in New York this summer."

TWO MOTHERS WIN

Two Charlestown housewives, Mrs. Mary Hurley and Mrs. Catherine Aspel, who signed themselves "Two Pals," and clicked for $4210 as a residual prize, were likewise excited.

Mrs. Hurley has seven children and her husband, Jeremiah, she said today, is a longshoreman who has been getting little work. For 23 years the Hurleys have lived in Charlestown. Her share of the money will go toward educating the children.

Mrs. Aspel has eight children and her husband, Bernard, also is a longshoreman.

"This comes as a godsend," she said. "We have had a lot of sickness in the family, but now we can pay our bills."

$500 FOR CHELSEA NURSE

The ticket marked "John Is" and which won $500 is held by Mary Agnes Crowley of 220 Webster avenue, Chelsea, registered nurse, who now is in New York taking a postgraduate course at Orthopedic Hospital.

She is a graduate of Chelsea high school and Chelsea Memorial Hospital and her nickname is "Sis."

According to Mrs. Jennie T. Crowley, her mother, Mary combined her boy friend's first name, "John," with part of her nickname to make the "John Is" pseudonym.

"Bridie, John and Rosie," whose ticket clicked also for $500, turned out to be Thomas J. Kelly, his wife and their three-year-old daughter, Rose Marie, 6 Magdala street, Dorchester. He is employed at a chain store warehouse in South Boston.

FIVE MURPHYS CLICK

And the "Five Murphys," another $500 winner, are John P. Murphy, employed by the Ritz-Carlton Hotel; his wife, Kathryn J. Murphy, and their three children, Rita, 21; John, Jr., 13, and Joan, 9, all of Minot street, Dorchester.

Patrick Tolle, 29, and Anthony D'Agostino, 21, $500 winners, are employed in the Roxbury Crossing barber shop owned by Joseph D'Agostino, father of Tony.

It's Easter clothes for Pat and Tony, they said, on learning they were in the money.

'Peeping' Suspect Seized in Mile Race

Captured after a spectacular chase, during which police fired four shots, Frederick Tomlinson, 21, of Minot street, Dorchester, today awaited trial Thursday as a peeper.

Officers of the Fields Corner station hid in a Lombard street home and apprehended Tomlinson when he appeared to be prowling in a back yard. Before he was caught, he led them a mile foot chase.

More Italian Troops Called for Training

ROME, March 21 (AP)—Italians reported today that the government had called to the colors for training and instruction further reservists of the 1901 army class, of whom 60,000 were called up in January.

Official confirmation of this report was lacking, but one responsible Fascist said it was only natural that Italy should be taking precautions in view of developments in France and Britain.

He said, however, that Italy was doing much less than last September, when 300,000 reservists were called to the colors.

To gain another viewpoint on Germany's expansion the Italian envoy to Berlin had been summoned home to report. The envoy, Bernardo D. Attolico, left Berlin last night.

It was believed in diplomatic circles Mussolini had called Attolico to Rome to give him an idea on how far he could count on German support in pressing Italian claims on France.

Attolico was due to arrive before tonight's meeting of the Grand Council, where Il Duce was expected to discuss the international situation.

Diplomats doubted, however, whether any decision of the Grand Council regarding international affairs would be announced before Mussolini's speech next Sunday.

Some of the 38-year-old reservists of the class of 1901, previously called, were exempted from service when they showed they had jobs.

Lithuania Out Of Memel Soon

KAUNAS, Lithuania, March 21 (AP)—Dr. Ernest Neumann, Nazi leader in Memel, announced today he expected "Lithuania to surrender Memel in the near future."

The statement came as Lithuanian officials were reported moving their families out of the Baltic district—German before the World War and now under Lithuanian sovereignty.

Dr. Neumann declared that in return for annexation to Germany Memel was prepared to grant Lithuania harbor rights.

*but if they do

*THE CHANCES ARE 7 OUT OF 10 IT WILL BE ABOUT MONEY

In a nation-wide survey by the Ladies' Home Journal among women, 69% gave money as the chief source of friction in marriage

HOW IT STARTED

1. HE: "Aren't you being a bit extravagant for the money I make?" SHE: "Well, your tobacco and lunches alone would keep us poor!"

2. HE: "Yeah? You buy silk stockings and then you feed me beef stew!" SHE: "Oh Jack! How can you possibly talk to me like that?"

3. HE: "I'm sorry! But we've got to get ahead of the game somehow!" SHE: "If you'll help make a budget, perhaps we can save somewhere."

HOW IT ENDED

4. SHE: "Look! We're out of debt and we've got $45 in the savings bank!" HE: "You're marvelous! Steak once a week and not a quarrel in months!"

U.S. Note Denounces Nazis' Czech Gobble

By ROBERT G. NIXON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 21—Acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles today made public a United States note formally refusing to recognize the legitimacy of Germany's seizure of Czechoslovakia.

Enclosed with the note was the public statement in which Welles last Friday denounced the Czech anexation by Germany as "wanton lawlessness and arbitrary force threatening world peace and the very structures of modern civilization."

State Department officials said the bitterness of this language was unparalleled in present-day diplomacy.

REVEAL GERMAN NOTE

Welles has made public the text of a German note of Thursday setting forth terms of the German occupation of Czechoslovakia.

The American reply delivered to the German embassy, addressed to Hans Thomsen, German charge d'affaires, was signed by Welles.

The American note said:

"Sir: I acknowledge the receipt of your note of March 17, in which, by direction of your government, you inform the government of the United States of the terms of the decree issued on March 16 by the government of the Reich announcing the assumption of a protectorate over the provinces of Bohemia and Moravia.

"The government of the United States has observed that the provinces referred to are now under the de facto administration of the German authorities. The government of the United States does not recognize that any legal basis exists for the status so indicated.

ENCLOSES CAUSTIC RAP

"The view of this government with regard to the situation above referred to, as well as with regard to related facts, were made known on March 17. I enclose herewith for the information of your govemrennt a copy of the statement in which those views were expressed.

"I accept, sir, the renewed assurances of my high consideration.

(Signed) "Sumner Welles, Acting Secretary of State."

The enclosure, constituting one of the bitterest denouncements the department has ever issued, condemned "military aggression, and interference in the affairs of free and independent peoples" and referred to the extinguishment of Czecho-Slovakia as "temporary."

Britain Asks 3 Allies Halt Nazis

would like to halt the eastward course of Hitler's empire.

Soviet Russia has urged Britain and France to call a conference of six "most interested states" to consider dangers of German expansion.

The Soviet proposal was that France, Russia, Britain, Rumania, Turkey and Poland confer. A Moscow communique said Britain "found this proposal premature."

WANTS BRITISH PLEDGE

Russia proposed the conference as a result of two inquiries directed to her by Britain after Hitler's march into Czecho-Slovakia. These were:

Is Russia prepared to take any steps over German's invasion of Czecho-Slovakia? And what is Russia prepared to do to aid Rumania if Germany strikes there?

Russians indicated they wanted Britain to state clearly that she would be prepared to resist any further Nazi steps. Moscow insists Britain take the proposed conference "seriously," and lay all her cards on the table.

Worries In Europe

WORRY MAP—Based on the question, "What will Hitler do next?"—this is the "worry map" of Europe. First . . . Memel (No. 1) and Danzig (No. 2) are plums awaiting his hand... . . then the Polish corridor will loom temptingly. After that . . . Hitler may try to march to the Ukraine by way of Poland, or Hungary and Rumania. Or . . . he may try to form puppet state of Ukrainians in Poland, Russia, Rumania and Hungary.

War Materials Bill Approved

WASHINGTON, March 21 (INS)—The House military affairs committee today approved a bill authorizing a $100,000,000 four-year program for rthe acquisition of strategic materials of war which this country does not produce.

The measure carries a provision directing the government to attempt to obtain barter agreements where possible so that the materials could be obtained through the exchange of surplus American agricultural products with foreign nations supplying the needed items.

Hitler to 'Die' Tomorrow! Detroit Hears

DETROIT, March 21 (INS)—Adolf Hitler will die tomorrow several hundred U. S. postcards delivered in Detroit today declared.

"Hitler doomed to die March 22, 1939," bold red letters on the cards proclaimed.

Postal authorities said no investigation would be made.

Hitler Sends New Aid Pledge to Duce

By PIERRE J. HUSS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, March 21—The Rome-Berlin axis held fast today despite rising opposition among European democracies to Hitler's expansionist aims.

Proof that German-Italian relations have suffered no strain was seen when Bernado Attolico, Italian ambassador to Germany, left Berlin for Rome with a reassuring message from Hitler telling Premier Mussolini the Fuehrer still is a solid partner with Il Duce.

Attolico is expected back in Berlin Thursday or Friday to convey to Hitler Il Duce's reply.

A further cementing of Italo-German friendship will be effected through Goering's resumption of his vacation at San Remo, a vacation he broke when the Czecho-Slovakian crisis suddenly flared up. Goering and his wife left Berlin today. He will see Mussolini and Marshal Balbo, governor of Libya.

The United States, British, French and Soviet Russian notes protesting against Germany's seizure of Bohemia, Moravia and Slovakia are "doomed to the waste-basket," authorities revealed.

Chief interest centered, as far as German plans were concerned, on the Memel question. Return of Memel to Germany by Lithuania appeared to be but a matter of time with some reports indicating it might occur Saturday.

Afternoon papers called attention to the fact that the European democracies are threatening to form a common front with Soviet Russia against Germany. The newspaper Nachtausgabe commented:

"If England and France join bolshevisan now, the entire democratic world, including the agonraving Roosevelt and his henchmen, must not be surprised if the realization comes that democratic political methods collapsed as fast as Nazi power increased without us having to do anything."

Lithuanian Foreign Minister Juozas Urbsys returned to Kaunas after a conference with Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop which, according to reliable authorities, ended in a stalemate.

The Lithuanian statesman was confronted with German demands but decided against any compromise offer.

Germany was said to have offered this program to solve the Memel issue "without tumult":

1—Lithuania must abandon Memel completely.

2—Germany will guarantee Lithuania's frontier.

3—Lithuania would be given a free port to compensate for the loss of Memel.

4—There would be no immediate military occupation of Memel.

The entire matter was left temporarily in the air. But German circles expected a decision by Kaunas, one way or the other, within a few days.

● It's an astonishing fact, but you can prove it yourself. Old Quaker—now 3 years old—rivals many higher-priced whiskies—in richness of flavor, in smoothness, and in bouquet! Here's why we say so:

We asked 1,000 impartial men to try Old Quaker and give us their honest opinion. "Smell it!" we said. "Taste it! Drink it! Then tell us what you think!" Not one of these men knew the name, age or price of the whiskey he was trying. Yet, out of the 1,000 men who tasted Old Quaker, 960 pronounced it a whiskey of exceptional merit . . . rich, but soft and mild . . . smooth in "texture" . . . delicate in bouquet!

They proved it a quality whiskey any man would be proud to serve—even though Old Quaker sells at a price sensationally low!

Why Not Save Money?

Make your own trial of Old Quaker! See if you don't agree with these 960 out of 1,000 men! If you do, you're going to enjoy whiskey to the utmost—and at the same time, cut down on your whiskey bills!

"What's the name of it? —I'd like to buy some," said Charles F. Smith, Jr., about Old Quaker.

Moving rapidly to whip French productive capacity into shape to match Germany's, the Daladier government announced also that a work week longer than 60 hours may be worked.

A communique said any person on relief who refused to accept work in national defense would be dropped from relief rolls for a year.

The announcement was part of a quick national defense reorganization, for which 16 decree laws were issued.

The 16 decrees not only signaled intensified production of war materials and a revamped military command system along the German frontier, but authorized the government to call reservists to the colors.

French political observers considered them the first of a series to put France on an equal footing with totalitarian states in rapid military action.

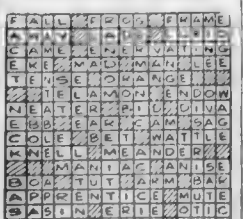
YESTERDAY'S ANSWERS.



N. Y. Fair Trip, Other Prizes in Camera Test

A fast action, up-to-the-minute camera is waiting for you to claim it. To be eligible to win it, simply snap a picture and enter it in the Camera Contest being sponsored by the Boston Evening American, Boston Daily Record and Boston Sunday Advertiser.

But that's not all. The camera is only one of the prizes. You may win a free trip to the New York World's Fair and $100 in cash prizes besides.

The picture you send to us as your entrance ticket may be chosen as one of 50 photographs which will grace the Daily Record booth at the First Annual Photographic Exposition opening April 13, at the Boston Garden.

At the close of the three-day exposition the judges will select the outstanding picture among the 50 on display and the photographer who snapped the picture will receive the camera.

The award is a Kodak bantam f4.5, one of Eastman's latest. It is equipped with a Kodak anastigmat and a 1/250 shutter. Attractive morocco leather covers the camera. Sounds worthwhile, doesn't it?

To enter the contest take a picture. Write your name, age, type of camera and film used and the conditions under which the picture was taken on the reverse side of the print and send it to us. The address is Camera Editor, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston.

You don't have to be a skilled cameraman. It might be the first picture you ever took, but it may win one of the attractive prizes.

Professional glass on the picture isn't necessary — although preferred.

Birds of a Feather

FLAGSTAD STARS IN 'DIE WALKURE'

By RUTH MARSTERS

If "Die Walkure" is, by dint of its music, the most popular of the four operas of the Ring, then Flagstad by dint of her incomparable portrayal of Bruenhilde is the favorite insofar as personalities are concerned in its performance.

The enthusiasm with which the audience greeted the Metropolitan's performance of Wagner's great music-drama in the Boston Opera House last evening was therefore unexpected. And such enthusiasm was the more in order because of the brilliant achievements of the entire cast.

Lauritz Melchior customarily does Siegmund in a manner so authentic as to dramatization as splendid vocally as to be unsurpassed.

Elisabeth Rethberg is not our favorite Sieglinde (Lotte Lehmann occupies that place) but she is convincing musically if at times somewhat blundering in her gestures.

As Fricka, Kerstin Thorborg does a thoroughly fine job. Miss Thorborg is new to Boston this season and in her first Fricka here, as in her first Brunnhilde last Friday evening, she admirably dealt with a difficult role.

Aside from the demands Wagner customarily made upon the vocal powers of his singers, he expected them to deal, as a matter of course, with his involved psychological problems.

Friedrich Schorr, who sang the part of Wotan last evening has learned to cope with the situations involved.

And Thorborg manages the utmost—which in this case is to appear something other than a shrew.

Flagstad, as Bruenhilde, has so identified herself with the character as to admit of no controversial criticism.

This evening there will be "Louise," with Grace Moore sufficiently recovered from her illness to appear in the title role.

Meantime the Boston Symphony Orchestra busies itself with the works of Ernest Bloch under direction of the composer as guest conductor. This afternoon's program in Symphony Hall includes the Two Symphonic Interludes from "Macbeth," "Three Jewish Poems," the Rhapsody "Schelomo," and the Symphonic "Helvetia," concluding the composer's visit here.

Judge Morton Rites Tomorrow

Funeral rites will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow at Trinity Church for Judge Marcus Morton, 77, senior ranking justice of the Superior court, with the Rev. Dr. William E. Gardner rector officiating.

The body will be cremated at Mt. Auburn crematory and the ashes will be buried in Newton cemetery.

Third of his line to serve on the bench of his native state, Judge Morton died suddenly in his apartment in the Charlesgate Hotel, Back Bay.

On Sept. 24 of this year he would have completed 30 years of uninterrupted service on the bench, and it was understood that Judge Morton had planned to retire at that time.

Tobin Vetoes Police Day-Off

Passed by the City Council two weeks ago, the order giving one day off in seven to Boston police has been vetoed, Mayor Tobin announced today.

He said the city was not able to stand the added financial burden, which would mean $85,000 a year more for the department this year, probably an additional $106,000 annually within five years.

At present the policemen get one day off in eight. They had indulged high hopes of victory. If the mayor had not vetoed the order it would have become effective at the end of 15 days.

TOURIST BOOM O. K'D

YOU'RE NOT SAFE—not even if there's a shiny 1939 model in your garage right now!

For if you ever get your hands on this Nash, your present car is going to feel as old as Old Dobbin.

You start out . . . no whirring of gears, but three tiny clicks of a lever* on the steering post, and you're swooping down the road.

No fooling—here is HORSEPOWER! Not that draggy, plow-horse sort, but 99 black devils of polo ponies pulling you out of the saddle.

Then a *Fourth Speed Forward suddenly cuts in, and the engine runs slower, but you go faster . . . smoother. It's so quiet you catch the awed whisper from your wife's lips.

It's a dusty day, but you stay spotless! The "Weather Eye*" gives you fresh air without dust, bugs, or chilling drafts.

You come into a line of traffic. But your Nash breaks away like a half-pint half-back running wild on a dry field. In sober truth, you've never felt a car stop, start, pivot, change pace, top a hill, or smooth a bump, with such fleet, lazy ease.

Howard's Show Wins Praise

Since its opening Monday "Bare Facts", playing at the Old Howard has been a big success large audiences being present at every performance.

In the company of 60 high-powered singing and dancing professionals attention is focused on Sonya Slane and her graceful gestures and Marie Tanguay with her fast and furious dancing. Miss Tanguay is hailed as "Gypsy Rose Lee, the 2nd." Miss Slane is a great asset to the show a siren of the first rank. Another favorite is Isobel Brown.

George Murray and "Hap" Hyatt the ton of laughter man, have a raft of the newest laugh-provoking stories. Then there is Pearl Myhe, Raymond Pike, Irving Karo, Audrey Hall, Marjorie Boye and Richard Dana. Bento Eros and Rita do a thrilling head-to-head balancing act. Wade and Wade are a couple of nifty steppers from Harlem. Penny and Jane Harlow are a wonderful team of singers and dancers. In the chorus are 30 pretty girls.

Columbia Hit Love Dance

This week Max Michaels' South End House the Columbia Burlesque theater offers the most novel and unique attraction ever to appear at that theater. The Monday audiences were thrilled by the sensational Jean Rochelle, half man and half woman in her daring rendition of the "Dance of the Lovers."

Not being satisfied with Jean Rochelle's daring antics, Max Michaels has injected another thrill personality into this week's production, an old Boston favorite, Romayne Jean Carter. Lee Marmer and Ginger Waldron three Columbia favorites round out the section of feminine pulchritude and were all highly received in their individual numbers.

Mandy Kay as usual, is headman in the comedy section. He is ably assisted by Al Pharr Floyd Hadley Irving Benson, Les Golden. Numerous vaudeville acts have been interpolated throughout the show, with the 30 Bernardolls adding zest to the festivities.

Hollywood Paragraphs

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

An inspired choice for the Maharanee in "The Rains Came" is Mary Ouspenskaya whose three performances on the screen will not soon be forgotten.

The Maharanee, a forceful character needs an Ouspenskaya. M. E. Warner will play the gentle Maharajah and Joseph Schildkraut, his second. Unquestionably who helps the right cause out has good works. Cesar Romero will be seen as Ali Khan, one of the Hindu [illegible] to do so well.

A cable to my desk said Merle Oberon and Alex Korda were secretly wed. I thought I had a scoop until I talked with Merle who denied that she is already Mrs. Korda but she didn't deny for affirm for that matter, that she will wed the United Artists producer as soon as she sets foot in Europe. I happen to know there will be a marriage shortly after Merle meets her prospective bridegroom in France.

She has changed her sailing plans and instead of traveling direct to Naples she will disembark at Cherbourg, meeting Alex there and going with him to Monte Carlo where his "Four Feathers" will be previewed.

NEW ROMANTIC FILM TEAM IN KEITH MEMORIAL FEATURE

'Love Affair' Shown Tonight

"Love Affairs," introducing the screen's newest romantic team, Charles Boyer and Irene Dunne opens at Keith-Memorial tonight with two previews.

It is a provocative screen mating, and Leo McCarey, whose "Awful Truth" took the Academy Award, is said to have another directorial triumph in this RKO-Radio production.

Miss Dunne is cast as the fiancee of a wealthy art collector Boyer as an internationally celebrated playboy. They meet on a New York bound steamer.

They solve their problem by declaring a six month moratorium, agreeing to meet at a certain hour. The girl misses the date, due to an ill-fated automobile accident that maims her. Boyer, not informed of the injury, believes he has been "stood up" and briefly it appears that there is to be a sour ending.

On the same program will be "Twelve Crowded Hours" in which Richard Dix appears as a reporter exposing the jewelry racket and Lucile Bal as a dancing instructor whose brother is mixed up in the racket.

Wilde Comedy Price Scale

Price scale of tickets for "The Importance of Being Earnest", Oscar Wilde comedy revival bringing Clifton Webb, Estelle Winwood and Hope Williams to the Wilbur next Monday evening, will be as follows:

For Wednesday and Saturday matinees, 55c, 85c, $1.10, and $1.65, and for all evening performances, 55c, 85c, $1.10, $1.65 and $2.20 and $2.75, including tax.

Seats go on sale this morning at the Wilbur box office. Mail orders are now being received.

Ruth Draper Here Monday

Having recovered from the attack of bronchitis and a minor infection which compelled her to cancel her Boston engagement, Ruth Draper will open at the Plymouth on Monday evening, March 27, for a week's engagement, as previously scheduled.

Boxoffice is now taking reservations. Seats go on sale Thursday.

AT THE OLYMPIA

Washington Street Olympia's present program "Jesse James," with Tyrone Power and Henry Fonda, and "Zaza," starring Marlene Dietrich and Claudette Colbert, ends Thursday.

Whee! Get out the marbles, kids. Spring's here and it's agate time. Br-r!

Best of the spring season is the chance to get out those roller-skates and traipse here and there at lightning speed. Here Irene Dandurand of Jamaica Plain forms a nice arch with her skating legs, through which you can see Marjorie Ann Whelton, also of Jamaica Plain, getting the winter kinks out of her limbs. At left is the Art Museum. Meanwhile, the snow gives you an idea!

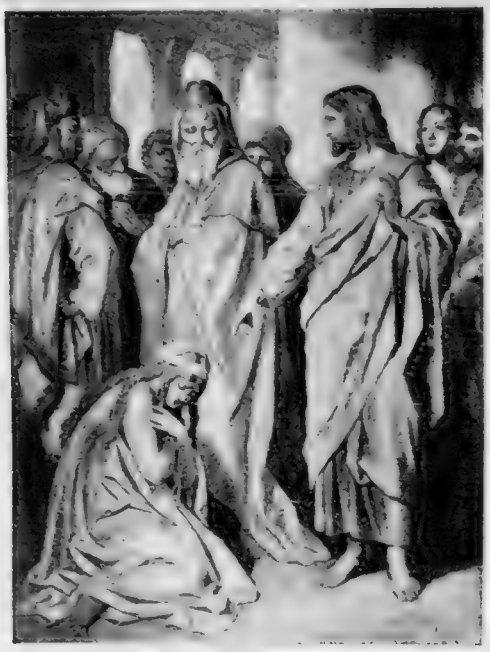
The Life of Christ

CHAPTER TWENTY-THREE



Our Lord Forgives the Sinner

By COLLIN CLINE

TODAY'S PICTURE, beautifully painted by Heinrich Hofmann, great German artist, illustrates the tender mercy of Jesus.

The Saviour had been invited to the home of a haughty Pharisee who in contempt for the Son of God omitted the courtesies usually paid guests in ancient Palestine. No sweet-smelling oils were in sight. Nor did servants appear to wash the feet of the dusty, refreshing attention in the hot and dusty country where open sandals were worn by all.

But a woman, a person of notorious character, entered the banquet hall, quietly knelt by her knees, bathed Jesus' feet and anointed them with precious ointment from an alabaster box.

The Pharisee was inwardly amused. To himself he said: "This man, if he were a prophet, would have known who and what manner of woman this is that toucheth Him: for she is a sinner."

Jesus was not deceived. Reading the Pharisee's thoughts, He informed His host that the woman, despite her wrongs of the past, had shown more kindness and consideration by DEED than the Pharisee who proclaimed their own virtues by WORD.

And turning to the woman, He gently said: "Go in peace."

This is one of the Lenten season's most important lessons. It shows that as long as life lasts there is HOPE for every sinner; that no matter what anyone does, so long as he repents he receives forgiveness.

It also speaks powerfully for TOLERANCE by teaching that those whom the world despises may be saints in the eyes of God.

TOMORROW, the story of Christ's holy life on earth continues, with a beautiful reproduction of the world-famous Schonherr painting.

YOUNG AMERICA will find abundant inspiration in the career of William O. Douglas, appointed by the President to succeed Justice Louis D. Brandeis as a Supreme Court member.

If confirmed by the Senate, Associate Justice Douglas will become of the youngest men ever to sit on the nation's highest tribunal.

That is important, of course. It changes the opinions of many who have been misled into thinking that accomplishment is measured according to a person's age.

More important, however, is the appointee's own ability to overcome disadvantages. When he wished to study law at Columbia University he crossed the continent from the State of Washington by "riding the rods" on freight trains.

Reaching New York with six cents in his pocket, HE WENT TO WORK, earned money and achieved his ambition.

One may not approve of William O. Douglas as a Supreme Court member. One may differ with him because of sectional, political or economic reasons.

But no one will deny that he has proved America the LAND OF OPPORTUNITY.

In few other countries could a young man start out by "hopping freights" and attain the glorious goal of membership in the nation's most august judicial body.

Human Side of News -1- by EDWIN C. HILL

FRIENDS DOWN on Wall Street tell me that business is improving faster than the stock market. For various definite reasons, these informants say, the market is no longer an accurate barometer of business conditions. The explanation lies in the human side of the news.

Adventurous human forces have passed from the money mart into Wall Street memory. Gone are the Harrimans, Leiters and Sullys and in later years the Livermores and Baruchs.

It used to be that a reporter could always fan up a story about some bold plunger.

A FEW WEEKS AGO a correspondent reproached this department for not taking in more territory. He maintained that the world is a composite of unpredictable human forces, rather than a resultant of blindless economic and political uniformities.

That idea would seem to be pertinent to the present drab and cautious stock market. Say what you will about the resources and the technology which make the big money run-around of the pre-smash era, when something happened it usually turned out that somebody had started it.

WHEAT KING LEITER
Wall Street Remembers

The money kings and market kings were, indeed, human spark plugs, performing a basic function in the monetary ignition system.

There are, of course, other reasons for the two-penny, safety-first market. People with important money have been seized with the same security obsession as the rest of us. All anybody wants these days is a jug-handled cinch. When the sky was the limit, the chance for a big winning would readily induce a big risk. But now the spot risk is greater and the possible clean-up less.

On the short side you have to put down a 50 per cent margin, on the long side, 40 per cent. That means that if you buy ten shares of telephone at 160 you spot up $540. In other days, your ante on this deal would have been $160, on your margin of ten points.

ALSO the John Laws are lurking around that corner—to nab you for any slight infraction under the new and elaborate rule book. If you have a 10 per cent interest in a corporation, or are its officer or director, all your winnings, with corporation funds, go into the company kitty, but you take the losses, if you lose.

If you get caught sitting in on a pool, or any scheme for manipulation, or for wash sales, which used to be pretty much par for the course, it's just too bad. You explain it to the judge.

Girl About Town -1- by MARJORIE McBRIDE

HANDING out information in a busy center like the North Station takes brass, quick brains, nerve and plenty of patience.

INFORMATION BUREAU BUSY SPOT AT NORTH STATION
Roy Birmingham Gives Data to Harriette Lacey and Evelyn Silva

Attendants there, for example, don't say after the Army-Navy game: "What time does the 5:21 leave for Lynn?" They know that and the commuter rarely knows it himself on what track it leaves.

But the inquiring seem to appreciate it when they learn how many people thank Mary is pretty near to Chicago and that Montreal and Quebec are next door neighbors.

There seem to be fads of all descriptions, and the clerks get their information without the attendant having to look it up. So they answer the questions, then flip open a time table to announce the departure of the train.

PROBABLY FEW of the kids who slid down the mound southeast of the bandstand in the Common this winter realize the little hill used to be known as Smokers' Circle. Probably most of them wouldn't care.

Until 1851, according to historians, smoking in the public street was a misdemeanor. Smokers who were caught were fined. Even on the Common it was forbidden.

But by some sort of gentleman's agreement, the little mound was made a sanctuary for the rascals who loved the pipe or cigar. The mound was higher then.

IT'S NOT UNUSUAL for energetic young people to work their way through college, but few could or would, chime writing poetry for a diploma.

Laurence Francis Smock of Newton Center, a senior at Suffolk Law, is the ambitious young poet. His book of verse, "Shades of Grandeur or Many-Colored Lacquers," reflects the stuff that dreams are made of and is receiving world-wide recognition. He composed it in hours spared from studying law.

Economic War? -1- by HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON, March 21—There is and ought to be a good deal of difference in Washington on just how far we ought to go in waging economic war on the dictatorships in support of England and France. Nothing very violent has been done as yet. Germany gets no benefit from the reciprocal trade agreements. But that is no economic attack on Hitler. It is because we have no "most favored nation" treaty with Germany.

Neither can the recent 25 per cent increase in duties be called an act of economic war. Authority to make such increases has long existed. It was granted to offset the invasion of our markets through the device of subsidies and dumping by any nation.

SUCH BOYCOTTING of German goods as there is has been by private individuals and not by our government. So it is not true that we have, as yet, any declared or undeclared economic war on Germany and there is considerable opposition to any such move. But there is almost no opposition to our re-arming in a military and naval sense as fast as we can. The money will certainly be made available by Congress. In this very dearth of criticism—a danger lies.

GENERAL JOHNSON
Shadow-Boxing Ahead?

Congress will pass the appropriations with a flourish and go home. The public will feel that its protection has been assured. The War and Navy Departments will take over the program of building—AND THEN WHAT?

If the past is any guide to the future, in the War Department at least, there will be months, if not a full year, of shadow-boxing, jumping up and down and galloping in place.

THE NAVY is better organized and has a better record—but with every shipyard in the country absorbed in orders, it is pretty hard to see much unusual progress even in naval re-armament.

If World War experience counts for anything, this solution requires three things—a single directing authority—some very close contact, if not control in the manufacturing industries involved—third and above all, some simple machinery for reporting at least monthly to the Military and Naval Committees of Congress.

VAUDEVILLE SIGNS MARION TALLEY AS SINGER

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK March 21 Marion Talley will resume her career, but this time in a new field. Miss Talley will become a vaudeville singer. Her first engagement will be in Washington next month . . . Clarence Combs, who has been exciting the Squadron A polo matches, will be elevated to ten-goal ranking at the next indoor meeting. His ranking will top Winston Guest's. . . . Harriette Lee, who was selected "Queen of the Radio" some years ago by a group including Flo Ziegfeld, is back in New York now, still associated with radio. She's employed by Dorothy Lamour as voice coach and secretary.

STOKOWSKI and the Philadelphia Symphony will start recording the music for the new Walt Disney film next week. After that the picture will be made. The usual process thus will be reversed . . . Horace Dodge, the auto magnate, brought his 16-year-old son into El Morocco last night. "In a few years," Dodge explained, "he'll be coming in and asking 'Is the old man around?' So I want to start him right" . . . Czech officials in New York desire to permit their World's Fair Pavilion—which is still incomplete—to remain as is for the remainder of the Fair. They want this architectural eyesore to be viewed by all visitors—as a reminder of the betrayal of their country.

PAUL PATTERSON, publisher of the Baltimore Sun, and Marc Connelly were passengers on the Normandie's recent cruise to South America. They discussed newspapers, and Patterson confessed: "I have trouble with my editorials, but I can't do much about them" . . . A lady who had joined the group stated: "I don't like the editorials in my paper either and I, too, can't do anything about it" . . . "What paper is that?" Connelly asked . . . "Oh, a small one," the lady replied. "The Irvington News" . . . "That's a swell paper," Patterson assured—and then discussed technical details concerning papers . . . "Tell me," Patterson concluded, "do you edit the Irvington News yourself or do you hire some one" . . . "Neither," explained the lady, "I don't own it. I buy it."

TIP TO THE HARASSED! Watch out for a Boston constable . . . He has a ruse which his fellow process-servers will adopt for certain when they read this. The constable is an ex-cop, and the clippings in the morgue prove that he has always been an inventive fellow . . . Here's the way he snatches a victim when he's serving the papers . . . LISTEN, WORLD! -:- -:- By Elsie Robinson

TROUBLE is, you need to SUCCEED AT SOMETHING. I didn't need to tell you that, did I? You guessed it already! But it's doubtful if you know just how deeply, how strangely, you need success.

Ever wonder why you get those sudden "mean spells"? . . . why you snap at the youngsters, Mary? . . . why you blow up at the office, Bill? . . . why you get the blues? . . . go into the sulks?

Probably you've blamed it all on indigestion or nerves—or that temper you "inherited from dad's side of the family." But you're wrong. Those "spells" go deeper than that.

SIGMUND FREUD figured it out first. The whole human race was his clinic. Here were millions of human beings of every degree, from plain meanies to public enemies; why were nearly all of them unhappy? WHAT WAS THE COMMON SOURCE OF ALL THIS DISCONTENT? Most of them had been normal at birth . . . have exhibited when young the normal instincts toward friendliness. Why did they so soon become warped sour, suspicious, generally malicious?

THEY WENT SOUR BECAUSE THEY FELT DEFEATED. Everyone needed a certain amount of success to keep him in mental and spiritual health—just as they needed sunshine, rest, play, certain vitamins in their food. And that need increased with our growth. Life wasn't just a scramble for food or money or love. IT WAS, FUNDAMENTALLY, A SCRAMBLE FOR SUCCESS . . . A STRUGGLE AGAINST DEFEAT.

DEFEAT—THAT WAS THE ROOT OF ALL MISERY, SAID SIGMUND FREUD. CROSS PEOPLE . . . COWARDLY PEOPLE . . . BULLIES AND CRIMINALS . . . WERE ALL FRUSTRATED, DEFEATED PEOPLE, WHO USUALLY SOUGHT COMPENSATION IN HURTING SOMEONE ELSE.

"FRUSTRATION AGGRESSION HYPOTHESIS"—that's what the psychologists call Sigmund Freud's theory. Big words, but you'll find that they explain the simplest situations in your life. Dig into any sudden, irritable outburst and you'll find a SENSE OF DEFEAT GNAWING AT ITS ROOT. Yet it may have arisen from some pitifully trivial thing.

DISASTER has insignificant sources. But so has the Mississippi! But, fortunately, if you once find the source of your personal defeat, you can cure it. How? Exactly as you'd cure a physical ailment. If you found that you were developing rickets you'd mighty soon reach for a new diet. By the same token, if you're developing a SORE HEAD REACH FOR SUCCESS.

Find some work or some hobby at which you can succeed. Set up a lathe in your garage and make some furniture, or buy a set of chemicals and experimental apparatus, Bill. Take up a correspondence course in short stories or dressmaking, Mary. Discover something, ANYTHING, which you can do better than the next fellow . . . and before you know it, your whole life will be aglow with new pride, curiosity, ambition . . . AND GOOD NATURE!

Smart Set Fashions

Topcoats for Tiny Tots

By ANNICE BRINK

CAN YOU remember back in the days when you were seven, the breath-taking excitement of stepping out on Easter Sunday dressed from top to toe in your new spring finery?

If we were children again then and [illegible] we were children of today are indeed more so. Happily the days are gone when mothers bought clothes without consulting the small wearer who had to wear them, and got them two sizes too large so we could grow up to them.

Today the girls and boys are quite as important as their elders, in the opinion of the shops. Never were tots' clothes more gay and so delightful.

COATS SMARTLY TAILORED

Fashions for this [illegible] season reflect the trend so marked in grown-up styles: dainty dainty blouses and frocks, coats of color. And bright prints as well as tweed bodices and full swing skirts. Coats are smartly tailored and lovely colored tweeds have joined the conventional navy or tan.

Little boys coats are attractive but not "sissy." Junior and Dad can be a small copy of his dad in an Easton flannel suit with a navy jacket and plaid pants for instance.

Today we present two coats guaranteed to make your pride and joy the best dressed child on the Easter parade. The little girl coat is of violet tweed, tailored in the British manner, with fitted waistline and slight flare; its most exciting feature, though, is a stitched leather collar and cuff.

With it comes a smart matching pillbox with leather trimming. This, mind you, in sizes 3 to 6. The outfit costs a little over sixteen dollars.

ETON CAP

And if you ever see your 3-to-6 young man in some frilled masculine topcoat of Stevenson's cameo, hair with belted or guard back, you'd buy it. A matching Eton cap completes the costume, for the same price as the girl's outfit matched.

Annice Brink will tell you what Boston shop carries these children's fashions if you call her at Liberty 4000 or write her at the Boston American, enclosing a stamped and self-addressed envelope.

THE LITTLE DAMSEL feeding the pigeons is justly pleased with herself, in a smart coat of violet tweed, trimmed in stitched leather. Her brother feels very manly in a real camel hair topcoat tailored just like Dad's. Annice Brink, fashions editor, tells of these and other children's fashions today.

Remove Warts

Warts are an abomination. Touch them with castor oil every night and they'll evaporate. Moles are no beauty bargains but are not as unsightly as warts. A physician who specializes in blemishes of the skin has various means of exterminating them. The X-ray is the usual treatment.

Liver spots are first cousins to freckles. Caught early, they may give way under frequent applications of peroxide or some bleaching cream. Like freckles, they may be transient, appearing only in the summer season when the skin is exposed to strong sunlight.

Warts and moles may become troublesome if they are constantly fingered by cloth. At the first sign of inflammation they should be removed.

Sulphur Cream Ends Dandruff Worries

By ARLINE GOULD

IN GRANDMA'S DAY, the twittering of the first robin was the signal for doses of sulphur and molasses, supposed to counteract "spring fever"—a nasty trick, we've always felt.

But today, thank goodness, we don't dose ourselves with anything. Spring has become a truly joyous season, in which to get a fresh grip on life, on looks and on love.

The old folks were not so wrong, however, in their knowledge of the healing properties of sulphur. Now you don't have to take it internally, but it has bobbed up, actually, as a beauty aid!

GOOD FOR DANDRUFF

Witness the introduction of a new sulphur compound that is simply amazing as a dandruff clearer-upper. It is a soft cream, odorless and unperfumed, that will do wonders toward getting your scalp back into condition.

(And it wouldn't be a bad idea to leave it where the menfolks can get it. Dandruff doesn't add to their charms, either!)

This is the time of year when our scalps are likely to be a disgrace. During the winter we neglect our hair for so many reasons.

If you are considering a Spring permanent, remember that the most expensive one in town will not be a success if your hair and scalp are not in good condition. And that the first requisite for loveliness is immaculate, sweet-smelling locks.

Here is the treatment you should follow, before you appear out in one of those adorable new hats: Shampoo the hair thoroughly with an olive oil shampoo. Rinse and dry thoroughly. Then, using your fingertips, apply a small quantity of the sulphur cream directly on the scalp. Massage it in well.

A WEEK'S TREATMENT

Do this every night for a week. After that use it only twice a week until your scalp is free from all dandruff. This will do for you what an expensive course of treatments does—and you can buy a good-sized jar for only a little over a half-dollar.

Arline Gould will be delighted to tell you where to get this grand dandruff destroyer, if you call her at Liberty 4000 weekdays before 5:30, or write her at the Boston American, enclosing the usual stamped and self-addressed envelope.

Economical Spring Meat Cuts

By MARTHA LEE

ONE OF THE MOST frequent queries coming to our desk is, "I want to cut down my food budget. Please tell me how to use inexpensive cuts of meat."

We'll gladly tell you how to prepare cheaper cuts, and we encourage their use, because we know that properly cooked they are as delicious as the more expensive, tender cuts.

We know, too, that the parts of the animal from which the less tender cuts come, some receive more exercise, which develops the extractives in the meat, making the inexpensive cuts richly flavored.

ALL OF GOOD QUALITY

What are the less expensive cuts? To the experienced shopper it is frequently a piece of round or rump. The round is taken from the upper portion of the hind legs, and commonly you may buy either the top round (from the inside of the leg) or the bottom round (from the outside of the leg). The rump lies over the hip bone of the hind leg. These cuts are used for pot roast, Swiss steaks and stews.

The chuck or shoulder generally costs even less than rump or round. From the chuck comes a wide range of cuts—pot roast, chuck steak, stewing meat, chopped meat.

If the meat is of excellent quality, sometimes chuck steaks are even tender enough to broil, but they are usually better when cooked for a long period of time in moist heat.

The flank, delicious indeed, lies just below the loin. Here is a shining example of a portion of the animal which profits in flavor by receiving exercise.

BRISKET QUITE FAT

The plate, which lies below the ribs, is often cut in two pieces lengthwise, the upper cut being known as the short ribs.

The brisket, being quite fat, is often used for corning, but when some of the fat is removed it is also used for making stews and for chopped meat.

The fore shank has a good proportion of meat to bone and makes tasty soup and stews.

Nor must the glandular organs be overlooked—heart, kidney, liver, brains. They give good food value at low cost.

No matter which of these cuts you choose, remember that the secret of tenderizing such meat lies in long, slow cooking with moisture.

BRISKET OF BEEF WITH SAUERKRAUT

3 pounds brisket of beef, cut in pieces
2 tablespoons fat
1 medium onion, sliced
1 quart sauerkraut
Salt and pepper to taste
1 cup boiling water

Sprinkle the brisket with salt and pepper and allow to stand at least an hour. Melt the fat in a Dutch oven or a deep kettle and add the onion. Cook until soft add the sauerkraut and cook for 5 minutes. Add the brisket and the boiling water, cover and cook over low heat until brisket is tender. Makes 6 servings.

BEEF BRAISED WITH TOMATOES

3 pounds beef from round
3 tablespoons fat
1 No. 2 can tomatoes
1 onion, finely chopped
2 whole cloves
¼ cup butter
¼ cup chili sauce
Salt and pepper

Wipe meat and cut, or have it cut, into 6 slices. Saute each slice in fat until browned. Add tomatoes, onions and cloves. Cover and simmer 1½ hours or until meat is tender. Add butter and chili sauce just before serving and season to taste. Makes 6 servings.

RAGOUT OF VEAL

2 tablespoons shortening
2 pounds shoulder of veal, cut in 1-inch cubes
1 large onion, chopped
2 cups diced potatoes
¾ cup bread crumbs
2 cups boiling water
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon paprika
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon flour
½ cup cream or sour cream
¾ cup chopped canned mushrooms

Melt the shortening in a frying pan, add the veal and sear, but do not brown. Add onion, potatoes, bread crumbs, water and seasonings. Cover and cook over low heat one hour. Moisten flour with cold water and pour into frying pan. Add cream and mushrooms and cook until thickened. Serve with boiled rice or noodles. Makes six servings.

Put Charm Into Manners

Lucky Jean, thinks Betty, struggling into her wrap. But it's natural for Bob to think of Jean first when assisting the girls. She says such charming, gracious things, it's a pleasure to do things for her.

"So thoughtful of you to send me gardenias," she says to Bob when he arrives to take her to the dance. She greets her hostess with "It was so nice of you to ask me." When her partners thank her for a dance she smiles "I enjoyed it too."

It's simple to give such a delightful friendly impression when you have a store of gracious colorful words.

Invited to dinner? Accept enthusiastically with "I'll be so glad to come." Refuse if you must with a regretful "What a shame, I simply can't make it."

KITTY TALBOT was among society's music lovers to hear "Die Walkuere" last evening.

DOING THE SAME THING every night in the week usually makes most anything lose some of its appeal . . . but Boston's opera season is so short that music lovers are glad to go every night . . . and repetition does not make the two-fold spectacle presented at the Opera House lose any of its individuality and brilliance . . .

Society's music lovers continue to add to the brilliance by appearing in different gowns from their well stocked wardrobes . . . and last night the Met outdid itself with a glorious performance of Wagner's "Die Walkuere," with Kirsten Flagstad and Lauritz Melchior topping a cast of wonderful singers . . .

Though it was nearly midnight when the final curtain was drawn, not a soul stirred until after the thunderous climax in which all the mountain passes and the rocks of the Valkyries are lighted with the most realistic fire, and the orchestra thunders out the stirring Valkyries theme . . .

Bartlett Harwoods Attend

JUST RETURNED from a southern vacation, Mr. and Mrs. Bartlett Harwood were greeted by many friends as they strolled about at intermission . . . Mrs. Harwood's gown of smoke gray tulle had a bodice of glistening gray sequins and was adorned with diamond clips . . .

A diamond sunburst brooch sparkled on the bodice of Mrs. Christian Herter's black taffeta gown as she sipped lemonade with Speaker Herter, George Von L. Meyer and Mrs. Charles Sumner Bird, Jr., whose black gown was made with panels of shell pink and pale blue chiffon . . .

Mrs. Stephen Van R. Crosby cut short her trip to Texas and Florida in order to attend the opera . . . She sat way down front with her daughter Mrs. Katharine S. Choate . . . In the dim light during the prologue we could just discern the bright red flowers perched on top of Dorothy Cornish's hair . . . This socialite had more than ordinary interest in the singing, for she made her debut with the San Francisco Opera Company a couple of years ago and has studied many notable roles . . .

Jane Bancroft, who came over from New York to join the family party in her mother's box, wore a gown of lustrous mahogany satin . . . Several engaged couples attended together, including Mary Porter Wardwell and Jim Simmons, and Dodo Dean and Robert Parkinson who are planning a big June wedding . . .

Mrs. Frank Shaw, Jr., waved a huge fuchsia chiffon hanky to friends across the lobby . . .

Jane Matthews Weds in Newton

THE SPRINGLIKE colors of citron yellow, blue and violet are combined in the costumes of the bridal attendants at Jane Matthew's wedding to Francis Gardner Jackson this afternoon in Union Church, Waban . . . The petite, winsome bride has chosen a gown of ivory taffeta made in mid-Victorian style, with a coronet of taffeta roses holding her veil . . .

Her sister-in-law-to-be, Mrs. Manning Emery (Madeline Jackson) is wearing Gothic blue taffeta with a small flower trimmed white straw hat, for her role as matron of honor, while the six bridesmaids are togged in citron taffeta and carrying bouquets of fresh violets . . . They are the Misses Betty Prescott, Peggy Paine, Clara Jackson, Polly Klotz, Sally Scudder and Mrs. John B. Miller . . .

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Matthews who are playing hosts at the wedding reception at the Brae Burn Country Club . . . Mr. Jackson's parents are Mr. and Mrs. James Jackson, members of the prominent riding and hunting set in Westwood . . . After their honeymoon the couple will reside at the Brooks School, Andover, where Mr Jackson is an instructor . . .

Jane made her debut in the season of 1935-36 and belongs to the Junior League and Vincent Club . . .

PRYING EYES SEE GLORIA IN TRAILER

CHAPTER 20

STEVE found himself gazing at Gloria from across the table. As his brain words started away, he felt his heart beating faster. "Why, you're going to be brave about this," he stammered. Impulsively he flung out a protecting hand.

In his excitement he had knocked over the pitcher of canned milk. Almost without his tail and leaped forward in a tongue of white, frothing stream.

At the same time Bill Beaselie, trading as softly as a cat, edged his face around the front of the trailer in order to see what he could see.

He took a good long look, edged his face out again and disappeared in the woods.

Dog raised his head and the pricking of his ears told Steve that he was trying to break the spell. He stood up and yawned, stretched his legs.

"Albert! Albert, you come back from that road!" Steve cried.

Gloria Fair, in the trailer, put her face against the window pane, saw Steve and Albert, of course, Steve turned up the collar of his leather jacket and pulled down the "Leave me alone" expression on his face. "There's something I've been wanting to say to you."

"Just a minute, I've got the mail." Steve mumbled. "I'll get the mail." Steve mumbled. "I'll get the mail." Albert will take care of the department all right."

QUICK! THE POLICE!

Gloria's head was whirling. Her voice seemed a long way off. She looked up at him again.

The sound of off-key whistling came to the ears that were pulled apart. "Lift up the couch!" Gloria ran for her compact.

Steve fumbled at the catch. "Quick! Get in the room, we've got to get out of here!" he whispered. Perhaps, after all, it might be fortunate that on the case just ended.

Bill Beaselie, standing against the trailer, heard the whistling and the voices. He was trying to see what was going on. Then he heard Steve's voice. "Albert! Albert, you come back from that road!" Steve cried.

Gloria Fair, in the trailer, put her face against the window pane, saw Steve and Albert, of course. Steve turned up the collar of his leather jacket and pulled down the "Leave me alone" expression on his face. "There's something I've been wanting to say to you."

Port Authority Builds Up Traffic

By HUGH E. BRADSHAW
Financial Editor

The program of the Boston Port Authority is entering the expansion stage . . . With the announced aim of building up traffic . . . Without, however, relaxing of previous efforts to improve physical facilities . . .

Nor will the Authority discontinue or neglect its drive on removal of rate restrictions . . . These things we learn from the annual report . . . But it in between-the-line reading that interests us . . . Entrance into the business getting phase supplies a chance to dramatize its activities . . . One that rate cases with dry and drawn out legal proceedings failed to permit . . . Now the importance of the Port not only to eastern Massachusetts but the northeastern section will be better realized . . . With a well qualified agent in the field soliciting freight and passenger traffic, public attention should be captured . . . Then the prospects of an active port can communicate to surrounding business and commerce and industry will be given due recognition . . .

DECISION AWAITED . . . By the members of the Port Authority at the moment reveals the breadth of their activities . . . It carried to the Supreme Court its fight to compel certain railroads to cease furnishing warehouse service in New York at less than cost . . . A decision in favor of the Boston Port Authority will substantially increase import traffic . . .

The members of the regulatory, promotional and advisory unit doing so much to improve conditions in this section are . . . Louis E. Kirstein, chairman . . . Richard Parkhurst, vice-chairman and secretary . . . And Commissioners John F. Fitzgerald, Maxwell E. Greenwood, David H. Howie, James J. McCarthy and Francis J. O'Donnell . . .

SALES ADVISOR . . . McKinsey, Wellington & Co. Boston and New York management consultants, announce association with their firm of Eugene L. Van Houten . . . Who has held several important positions and advertising posts since graduation from Harvard Business School in 1922 . . . He is considered an outstanding authority on sales operations and will serve as advisor for clients of the firm . . .

TEXTILE BUYERS . . . Have been on sidelines of late . . . And will be kept there for a while judging from current indications . . . The reasons are twofold . . . The first of course, is Herr Hitler's exploits . . . And the second is rumors of cotton legislation . . . Until the latter takes some shape that appears likely to receive Congressional approval cotton will do little . . .

INCREASE SEEN . . . In rail revenues for the New Haven By Howard Palmer, president trustee . . . Estimates filed with the federal court at New Haven for 1939 indicate an increase of 36.8 per cent we expected . . . In net operating railway operating income . . . Also good news for Readville workers is contained in car repair estimates . . . The figure is placed at $710,700, an increase of $344,854 over last year . . .

RUKEYSER

Mr. Douglas' Use Of Word 'Phoney'

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER
International News Service Economic Commentator

NEW YORK, March 21—It has been fashionable in recent years for politicians to characterize with brutal frankness the qualities of men of finance and business . . .

There was an example of this last week when W. O. Douglas, chairman of the Securities & Exchange Commission and newly appointed member of the Supreme Court, ran counter to the business "appeasement" program to the extent of calling the recommendations of John M. Hancock and other spokesmen for 17 stock exchanges "phoney" . . .

In view of the failure of the "new order" administered by the SEC under the securities act and the securities exchange act to achieve the promised land of greater "stability," the question might in all seriousness be raised as to whether the reform legislation itself is not more or less of a "phoney" . . .

As a matter of fact, price fluctuations at the security exchanges in the last twelve or thirteen months have been extraordinarily violent. The reduction of liquidity has exaggerated price movements as securities seek to adjust themselves to changing conditions and prospects . . .

Inasmuch as the market has perhaps responded at times as much to the "Hitler cycle" as to the business cycle, was it a "phoney" to give the public the impression that by clipping the wings of professional speculators, bears, specialists, and manipulators that you could thereby approach stability in an insecure world? . . .

If the aim is to put the security markets on an investment basis isn't it a "phoney" to conceal the fundamental truth that the market as a mirror reflects such stability and instability as exists in the real world of business? How can there be stability or security prices as long as our national economy remains sadly unbalanced? . . .

How can security prices reflect economic realities at home as long as the adventures of the bad boy Hitler keep financiers, business executives and statesmen jittery? . . .

Reform in the security laws and in the administration of the stock exchanges was long overdue, but the benefits have been oversold to the public . . .

Kentucky Store Tax Invalid

FRANKFORT, Ky., March 21 (AP) The court of appeals, Kentucky's highest tribunal, today declared invalid the 1934 state tax on chain stores.

The ruling was in favor of the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company, which sought return of $32,352 paid in 1938 for annual license taxes on its 200 Kentucky stores, and $49,652 paid in 1937.

Its petition was dismissed in Franklin circuit court and appealed.

The act provided that "Each person, firm or corporation owning one store and one store only shall pay $2; two to five stores, $25 for each store; six to ten stores, $50 per store; 11 to 20 stores, $100 per store; 21 to 50 stores, $200 per store; 51 and all succeeding stores, $400 per store."

The 1938 general assembly eliminated the tax on single stocks but kept the other rates the same.

The company contended the tax was "unreasonable, arbitrary and confiscatory," declaring the tax required of it "in both 1936 and 1937 amounted to more than 100 per cent o fits net earnings for 1936, and was approximately 91 per cent of its average net earnings for the three-year period 1934 to 1936, inclusive."

Stocks Score Good Gains in Quiet Upturn

NEW YORK, March 21 (AP)—A quiet recovery shift, with gains running to 3 or more points, got the stock market back on its feet today.

Steels, motors, aircrafts, utilities, coppers, oils, rails and specialties drew the principal buying support in slow dealings.

Cloth Mart Quiet

NEW YORK, March 21 (AP)—Cotton goods buyers took only small lots at prevailing prices in Worth street textile markets today. Turnover in rayon was somewhat better than a week ago and converters reported improved demand.

TEXTILE INDUSTRY HITS COTTON PLAN

WASHINGTON, March 21 (AP)—A spokesman for the Northern cotton textile industry said today Secretary Wallace's proposal to export raw cotton at prices below the government cost would penalize the grower and the spinner.

Russell T. Fisher, president of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers, declared in an interview Wallace's proposal was in effect a two-price system "with a low price for foreign spinners and a high price for domestic spinners."

Remarking that the cotton manufacturing industry employed 400,000 persons, Fisher said the principle of subsidizing exports of raw cotton would have a "serious and detrimental effect on cotton manufacturers and ultimately on the growers."

Under the reciprocal trade agreement program, he added, tariff protection already had been reduced on cotton goods so that domestic spinners "no longer could compete with New England in certain constructions."

Selling the foreign spinner cotton at lower prices than domestic manufacturers, he continued, would have the practical effect of cutting tariff protection even more.

The domestic manufacturer, he declared, should be "of a primary rather than secondary concern to Wallace."

HEARST PAPER 100 YEARS OLD

SYRACUSE N. Y. March 21 - Freedom of the press in America is a precious fact because the freedom of speech and of religion which we have in the country and all depend upon the unfettered press, paper editors & Syracuse and news men were told at a banquet in honor of the 100th birthday of the Syracuse Journal and Sunday American.

Jacob Ark Rochester attorney, guest speaker at the affair, described the condition of a nation's press as "the measure of its civilization if a country

LIBERTIES MAINTAINED

Pointing to the totalitarian states of Europe as examples of the tragedies caused by shackling the press, he answered critics of American newspapers by a pointed outline of the liberties maintained in the face of the rising enslavement of peoples abroad.

Louis D Burrill, publisher of the Journal; Mayor Rolland R. Marvin, the Rev. Ray Freeman Lee, new Cranial D Molson, president of the Merchants National Bank and Harry Hammond King Fenton Syndicate [illegible] were other speakers.

Telegrams from scattered cities in the group of Hearst newspapers were read at the banquet by the toastmaster, Edward Hungerford, the Journal reporter who made them were Herbert C. Porter of the Atlanta Georgian, Fred O. Archibald of the Atlanta Times Union, and Jesse Black of the San Francisco Times, former advertising manager of the Journal.

HIGH BOOK FEATURE

Herbert W. Hayes was present as representative of the Hearst Industrial Advertising Service.

To banquet guests a 64 page tabloid was distributed, the chief feature of which was the appearance of a maintain 252 page Book of the Century, a history of the city of Syracuse, and of the Journal's century of existence.

Among those sending greetings and congratulations to the Journal were Joseph V. Connolly, general manager of the Hearst Newspapers.

Another feature of the day was the unveiling of an oil painting of the late Harvey D. Burrill, for 40 years editor of the Journal. Mr. Burrill died last Christmas eve.

The painting will be [illegible] Syracuse artist was donated by employees of the Journal and will be displayed in the Journal building as a memorial.

Bruins Level Off for Cup-Go With Rangers

NEW YORK, March 21.

AS I HAVE SO OFTEN SAID WITH my blunt knack for busting the truth on the button, Hockey is a funny game.

AUSTEN LAKE

Here we are in the foyer of the Lincoln Hotel, a short biscuit-toss away from the big cavern where tonight's refrigerated mayhem will take place between the Boston Bruins and the New York Rangers. And what for? Why for the terrestial title—which is a large phrase encompassing all the world, including that part which Mr. Hitler has ear marked for his own. Imagine Adolf Hitler conceding anything.

I think you and the rest of the hockey addicts will agree that the championship is already settled and that the Bruins at this inst. are as much monopolists of top-hockey as the New York Yankees are of major league baseball. The Bruins have ended their season 10 games ahead of second place in a 47-game season, which is equivalent to the Yankees finishing 30-odd games ahead of the Red Sox or any nearest rival.

So what? So did the Yankees turn around last October and play the Red Sox for baseball's supreme bauble and a post season slice of the box-office fruit cake? No Sir! They played the Chicago Cubs, as No 1 in the next door league. That was a real world title!

But there is only one major league in the ice dementia. So the promoters are faced with that favorite figure of newspaper speech, a quandary. They can't play a mythical, or suppositionary opponent, like Max Schmeling once tried to do when he trained for his ghost fight against Braddock. They either have to play a flesh-bones-and-blood team, or pack their hockey duffle and go home for the next eight months. That last choice is unthinkable. So the top six teams play each other all over again, in miniature, and call it the World's championship for the Prince of Wales Cup—or is it the Duke of Windsor Cup? They play four months to eliminate one team.

New Yorkers Deplorably Calm

NOBODY KICKS ABOUT THIS. It furnishes added frenzy for the hockey fiberts, a nice payload of dollars for the magnates, a bonus for the athletes and topic matter for the sport authors. It's illusionary, but it's fun!

Now what have we got? We have one game in New York tonight and then three games in Boston. Which is a Providential mercy! Because New Yorkers take their championships in sport with the deplorable calm of an Englishman taking his tea wif' a crumpet. Here there is a total absorbance of that hero worship which makes Boston and Toronto the Middle-Europa of hockey.

Why hockey is not just an athletic contest in Boston and Toronto—it is a Holy War to be fought with spilled blood, loose teeth and profane curses. It is a form of emotional lunacy fit to bust the eardrums.

Today the New York journalists, who are a dispassioned lot, are conceding the Bruins a four of the seven games. Fancy that! But in Boston and Toronto the journalists give away nothing. Their job is that of a home-town apologists free-lance managers and typographical

BRUINS RATE EDGE OVER N.Y. RANGERS

By BILL GRIMES

NEW YORK, March 21—After winning the National Hockey League championship title going away by a margin of 16 points, the Bruins will be confronted with their final test of the 1938-39 campaign here tonight at Madison Square Garden when they cross sticks with Rangers in the first game of the Stanley Cup elimination series.

On their showing during the regular season losing which the Rangers five times in eight starts the Bruins are favored to extend their consecutive victories to nine games.

According to the powers that be at the 8th Avenue arena, Madison Square Garden will be jammed to the breaking point tonight. There hasn't been an available ticket in sight for three days. The "specs" have made a comeback on this game, which is a natural, for the Bruins and Rangers are the outstanding clubs in the N. H. L.

With the exception of one right winger in exchange Charlie Sands of the Bruins and Cecil Dillon Rangers, both clubs are at war strength. A few of the Rangers are feeling the effects of their home and home series with the Maple Leafs but none of them are suffering from anything but minor injuries.

KITCHENER LINE STARTS

Manager Art Ross will start the Kitchener line, Bobby Bauer, Herbie Schmidt and Woody Dumart, with Eddie Shore and Jack Portland on the outer defense and Frankie Brimsek in the goal.

Lester Patrick, who master minds for the Rangers, will open with the Colville brothers, Mac and Neil, and Alex Shibicky on the forward line, Art Coulter and "Mus" Patrick as the rear guard protecting Davie Kerr.

Manager Patrick is very much concerned over Cecil Dillon, his veteran right winger. In the third period of the Maple Leaf game last Saturday night in Toronto, with the home club leading, 2 to 1, Dillon broke out of the pack and set sail for "Turk" Broda. Reg Hamilton shook himself loose and in a desperate attempt to prevent the Ranger from scoring the equalizer, threw a baseball block at the veteran and heaved him into the boards. For more than two minutes Dillon sat on the ice and then he was picked up by a couple of his teammates and assisted to the Ranger bench.

Dillon was declined during the Sunday night game in New York and Joe Krol, who has been playing with the Philadelphia Ramblers of the International American League was at his right wing berth.

Due to a very painful "Charlie Horse" Charlie Sands didn't make the trip with the Bruins. Art Ross received word last night from Hamie Moore, one of the Bruins assistant trainers, that Sands attempted to skate at the Boston Garden yesterday but that his leg was so sore and weak that he (Sands) was forced to quit.

When Sands was injured in the first period of the Black Hawks game a week ago tonight, Art Ross wired Herbie Mitchell, manager of the Hersheys Bears of the Int-Am League to send "Red" Hamill, post haste, to the Bruins. Hamill is a left winger but during the play offs he'll be assigned to spell for Bill "Flash" Hollett, another port side shot, who will patrol the right wing boards for the Bruins.

Although they topped the American Division five times in the last decade and finished in second place on two other occasions, the Bruins haven't been able to get through the first round of a play off since 1934.

BRUIN FANS can well watch these three to get the complete story of the first game of the playoff series with the Rangers in New York tonight. "Zero Kid" Brimsek, stopping a bullet shot at the net post, scored ten shutouts in the regular season to lead the league; Bill Cowley, upper circle, was the league's best play-maker with the most assists; Roy Conacher, lower circle, led in goals scored.

CANADIENS LOOM AS 'DARK HORSE'

MONTREAL, March 21 (AP)—If you're looking for a dark horse for the Stanley Cup playoffs, you might do worse than pick the Montreal Canadiens on the strength of the season's scoring statistics.

Their defense may not stand up under the broad power of such teams as Boston, the New York Rangers and Toronto, but they pack some powerful punches up front.

The Canadiens have Hector (Toe) Blake, who won the league's scoring championship for a team that was sixth in the standing and fourth in goal getting. A plugger who never stops trying for his points Blake rang up 24 goals and 23 assists during the 44 games of the regular season to total 47 points.

On the other hand, Boston's league champions offer Bill Cowley who led the play makers with 24 assists, and Rookie Roy Conacher, who took most of his passes to score the season's top total of 25 goals. Cowley placed third in scoring, with 42 points. The Rangers have seven players among the first 25, headed by Clint Smith with 41 points.

Final records of the leading scorers:

BILL'S SPORT-O-GRIMES

NEW YORK, March 21—Since arriving here last night, Manager Art Ross hasn't had a minute to himself between answering the 'phone and interviewing ticket hounds, he's been on the hop . . . The "I-can-get-ya-all-the-ducats-ya-want" boys are in a tough spot, unless they are "specs"

The last place to go for tickets for tonight's game is Madison Sq. Garden . . . It's alleged that the ducats went direct from the printer to the "specs," without the Garden box office boys figuring in the play, even to the extent of a lowly assist . . .

Dr. Mo[illegible] who conferences with Dr. Frankie A[illegible] for the [illegible] popped up with another Adam bet . . . There hasn't been a [illegible] Lester Patrick's sudden exit for Light control [illegible]

In 1937 the Detroit Red Wings won the Stanley Cup and the following year [illegible] to qualify finishing last in the American Division . . . The Black Hawks duplicated that feat this season . . . New [illegible] world's pro [illegible] pays to annex the world championship title.

In the event that Lester Patrick decides to devote all of his time—and thoughts—to the front office next year, Frankie Boucher will be promoted to handle the Rangers . . . Frankie has done a fine job with the Rovers and is entitled to a shot at the big stuff . . . By the way, the Frankie Boucher, who has been getting those goals for the Rovers, is not the old Ranger play maker but his nephew, Buck's son

In the old days, it was Art Ross' custom to patrol the lobbies of the hotels where the Bruins were staying prior to all play off games . . . looking for his "bar-flies" . . .

But last night, soon after he arrived at the Lincoln, Art retired to his suite and remained there, answering telephone calls . . . There isn't a single "rummie" on the current Bruin roster

Accompanied by "Hamie" Moore and Walter Randell, the Bruins [illegible] arrived today.

Not to be outdone by Art Ross who brought "Red" Hamill [illegible] from Hershey, Lester Patrick has Joe Kerl of the Philadelphia Ramblers [illegible]

UNTOLD STORIES OF THE RING

BY JACK CONWAY

(Copyright, 1939, by Boston Evening American and Jack Conway)

Max Schmeling, the man who had been heavyweight champion of the world, sat on a log at his training camp at the Napanoch Country Club, New York, and fed nuts to a chipmunk. It was in June, 1936, and Schmeling had lost his title to Jack Sharkey four years previous.

The German had returned to the United States for a bout with Joe Louis, who was fighting his way to the title.

Joe Jacobs, Schmeling's German manager, joined the party.

Max had once told me that he used to keep the huge purses he had made in American banks in Switzerland. I asked him if he was permitted to do so now that Hitler ruled Germany.

"No," replied Schmeling, "and I have not any desire to do so. I have moved my cash from Switzerland, and now have it in German government banks.

"I received almost $100,000 the night I lost my title to Jack Sharkey, and a large part of that money went into real estate in Germany."

ADMITTED LUCK

The German admitted he was lucky and I recall Schmeling he was fortunate to win the title on a foul, as at the time Sharkey was not considered as a boxer.

Schmeling was very frank and admitted he was an inexperienced boxer at the time of the fight at Star-key Bridge on June 12th.

"Sharkey was a great boxer at the time," insisted Max, "and he had a big lead on points at the time the low blow was struck. I do not think most people doubt I was fouled. I felt at the time that if I had not been fouled that my youth would have worn Sharkey down, and that I would have eventually won."

Gene Tunney declared after the first Schmeling-Sharkey bout that Max had been robbed, and was a novice.

SAVED PURSE

One of the greatest shocks Schmeling received after the bout was when he was informed in the office of William F. Carey in the Garden the day after the bout that Sharkey and Schmeling each were to get $178,000.

While in his training camp Schmeling had a fear the bout would end in a foul. At the time there was a rule of the New York Athletic Commission which only gave the losing bout payment according to the number of rounds a bout went in the event the tussle ended in a foul.

Schmeling got the New York Athletic Commission to agree to eliminate this clause from the contract.

Sharkey heard what had been done and he asked for a similar contract. His request was also granted. The final contracts as signed called for the boxers to be paid no matter what happened in the bout.

At the time Sharkey had some legal difficulties and Johnny Buck-ley, now the N. Y. boxing czar, was in charge with a Boston cat-tern. Sharkey's purse was to be paid out of this amount. The Garden through William F. Carey, readily consented to do so and the money was put up.

Schmeling had adjusted his affairs with Arthur Bue-ou and did not take the precaution to have moneys posted.

When Schmeling called at the office of William F. Carey the day after his bout with Sharkey, the telephone rang.

"It is Jim Farley and he wants me to send the checks of Sharkey and Schmeling to the commission," said Carey. "I have your check, Max, but I haven't got Sharkey's."

Carey turned to Johnny Buckley, who was in the room, and asked what he would tell Farley in regard to Sharkey's money.

Buckley got red.

CONTRACT BINDING

"Tell Farley that I made you post the money in Boston and that I have it," said Buckley. "Under the contract it would be necessary to pay both boxers in full."

Carey gave the information to Farley over the telephone. Farley ordered Sharkey and Schmeling before the commission at which time all claims to the purses was released. Before this was done Schmeling experienced much mental suffering. He later told me he was afraid the commission would take away part of his money.

Schmeling was awarded the heavyweight championship of the world at this commission meeting. It was done after the German to defend his title against Max Baer in Long Island Bowl in New York on September.

"If we didn't give Schmeling the title, it would be charged that we discriminated against him on account of the fact he was a foreigner. If Sharkey, an American, had won under the same conditions we never would have recognized him as champion."

Schmeling failed to keep his agreement to meet Sharkey in September and he was barred in New York.

"I shall never let Schmeling defend his title in New York until he meets Sharkey," Farley told me one night in the Garden.

FARLEY KEPT HIS WORD

Farley kept his word as he always has through life. I doubt this is one of the reasons why he has been so far in politics.

"You can go home and sleep on it" is a favorite expression of the postmaster general when he commits himself on anything.

You can imagine Schmeling found the going a bit sorrowful.

Max went to Cleveland and knocked out Young Stribling. Then to fight in New York and to meet Sharkey and the latter won the decision at the end of 15 rounds and with it went the world's championship.

"You fought an unwise battle," I told Schmeling as he sat on the log feeding chipmunks. "You made the mistake of boxing Sharkey rather than walking in and trying to knock him out. Sharkey was going back at the time of his second bout with you, but still outpointed you as you fought this right."

"That is what I have often told Max," declared Joe Jacobs.

"If Max tossed punches recklessly instead of trying to outbox Sharkey he would have retained his title."

"Maybe you are right," said Schmeling. "This time I shall not make any mistake. I shall knock out Joe Louis."

And Max did.

Jack Conway will have another article in his series "Untold Stories of the Ring" in tomorrow's Boston Evening American. It will discuss Schmeling's bouts with Louis.

tickets for the local hockey firms, which are concessions run by Mr. Caesar Sinville, the human bromo Seltzer, and Mr. Art Ross, the beach Hamlet.

I day the hockey pecans of New York are absorbed in the vast wickedness, population of the city, going about their chores until face-off time. But on the day of the big games the Bostonians and the Toros stay home gathering strength to spend hours in key arena off their feed troughs by the force of their hollers. Anybody with a play off ticket splays his tonsils with copper deposits so he can whoop double strength and blow out the radio receiving tubes for miles around.

Stanley Cup Palsey

THIS SHOULD BE THE BRUIN'S YEAR to complete a grand slam. They have youth, veteran sagacity and balance. They have created a new league scoring record. They have punch and defense. Yet history shows that the Bruins have always been perfect little Fauntleroys with lace collars and velveteen pants when the Stanley Cup is mentioned. There is something about the big sterling gaboon which sends icicles chasing up their spines.

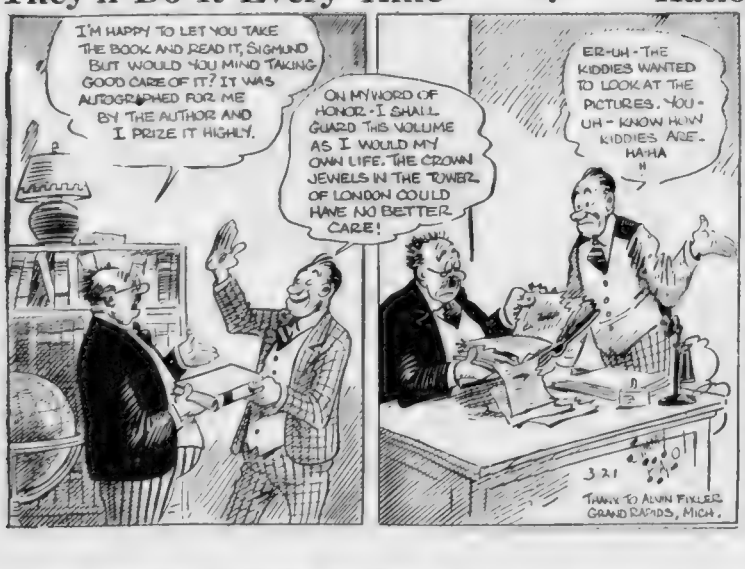
Remember? Take that nonpareil, blue banner outfit of 1930—the time that Cooney Weiland set up his scoring record of 73 points and the Bruins first line of Weiland, Clapper and Gainor stuffed or helped stuff, 183 rubber plugs into the fish nets. And what happened? Why, they were licked before you could say Leverett Salton-stall.

And what happened last winter? Why Uncle Art Ross sat on the Bruins' bench in Boston and Toronto while the pucks went whizzing by, his compact snoot resembling a rosette which anybody could have tied up like the top of a burlap bag. The Bruins were licked and these comparative nobodys from nowhere, the Chicago Blackhawks, which had finished sixth in the regulation season, copped the silver-ware. They had themselves photographed in a group with lettering saying they were "World Champions" and displayed themselves in store windows along Michigan Avenue. Suppose the St. Louis Browns did that in baseball!

So I trust that Uncle Art will have no reason to let his jowls drip long and loose as he leans his jaws on the dashboard at Madison Square Garden tonight. Because there were times in Toronto last winter when he was in danger of having somebody skate over his lower lip. But even so, Thursday night we will see you in Boston where our spirited hockey people will be belching such a steady uproar as to sweep the peanuts shucks up everybody's pant legs and hurt the ears clear down to the thyroid glands.

I think the Boston fans can win this series all alone by knocking the Rangers slap happy with the concussion of their shouts.

They'll Do It Every Time -:- Hatlo



Maloney, Bull Top Mat Card

With Jim Maloney wrestling Bull Martin and Jack Sharkey referee, a free for all may result tomorrow night at the Boston Arena in the feature bout of Promoter Sam Pen-ni's weekly mat tournament.

The Maloney-Martin feud comes to a climax in a one fall bout without a time limit. They've been swapping punches at one another with great abandon of late. Mal Sharkey was referee in two Bull Martin bouts in which the Bull got to swinging on Shamus.

Maloney challenged Martin to a close-down and the Bull readily accepted. So they clash tomorrow night and Price has called on Jack Sharkey, who's punching power is respected and who is a capable mat official, to handle the battle.

Other bouts will be Angelo Cos-toldi vs. Des Ryan, Dan Cady vs. Curley Donchin, junior heavyweight champion of the world, The Sheik vs. Frenchy LaRue; Steve Casey vs. King Kong Frankenstein and Syrian Kid vs. Max Wilson. All are one fall bouts without time limits.

Williams, Miller Look Great

By JOE CASHMAN

BRADENTON, Fla., March 21—They may be only flowers that bloom in the spring but this year's rookie crop has several buds that promise to blossom into hardy perennials.

Strange to relate, all these million-dollar babies don't belong to the Yankees, either. In fact, Joe McCarthy's highly-touted kids are being overshadowed by youngsters located elsewhere around the Grapefruit circuit. And our Boston clubs own not a few of these.

The best-looking kid outfielder down here isn't to be found among the Yanks' famed trio of Charlie Keller, Joe Gallagher and Walter Judnich. Rather he is to be discovered at the Red Sox camp answering to the name of Ted Williams.

Moreover, on what has been seen to date, the majority of managers would also take Outfielder Alvin Adams of the Cardinals in preference to any of the aforementioned New Yorkers.

MILLER MAKES HIT

The outstanding new infielder among those now working out in Florida is Eddie Miller, Bees' shortstop.

The Swarm, too, has one of the finest catching prospects to appear on the National League scene in years in the person of Phil Masi.

The spotlight returns to the Red Sox when tyro twirlers are being considered.

If Joe Cronin hasn't the prize mound find of the year in Woodrow Rich, then the Cards have him in either Tom "Lefty" Sunkel or Ken "Lefty" Raffensberger, strikeout kings of the International and Southern Leagues, respectively, last year.

Either that, or there's a second Walter Johnson or "Lefty" Grove hidden away on some other roster.

MILLER AT SHORT

Most of these rookies referred to already are assured of sticking in fast company this season.

Miller will be the Bees' regular shortstop and Williams will be the Sox starting rightfielder.

Manager Ray Blades is counting on his two youthful southpaw stars pitching in turn for the Cards and he's so enthusiastic about Adams that he's willing to trade Joe Medwick.

Joe Cronin hasn't yet said he'll keep Rich and Casey Stengel has yet to reach a decision on Masi, but the odds are greatly in favor of both hanging on and possibly hogging the headlines.

Whatever any do or don't do, however, here are seven infants who are destined to be among the brightest of tomorrow's big league stars.

Order Newsom To 'Slow Down'

SAN ANTONIO, March 21 (AP)—Buck Newsom, St. Louis Browns' ace pitcher who came into the fold only last week, had to be cautioned about overwork.

Buck put so much steam into his pitches in a workout, his third in uniform, that Manager Fred Haney had to call a halt after just 20 minutes. He threw curves and fast balls that kept Catcher Harold Spindel nodding his head in approval.

The Browns, setting the pace in the Grapefruit League, will attempt to take their seventh straight from the Phillies at Austin tomorrow.

Charley Conacher Unable to Travel

DETROIT, March 21 (AP)—Big Charley Conacher was left behind today when the Detroit Red Wings departed for Montreal to compete in the National Hockey League playoffs against the Canadiens.

Manager Jack Adams of the Red Wings said he expected Conacher to be able to take the ice against the Canadiens when the clubs return here Thursday.

Ducky Medwick Insists On $20,000 Contract

By HERB FINNEGAN

SARASOTA, Fla., March 21—Baseball's his game, and he wants to play it, but Joe "Ducky" Medwick doesn't intend to take a salary slash at the peak of his career if he can help it.

Medwick had just returned from the Cardinal headquarters in St. Petersburg whither he had been ordered by Branch Rickey to thrash out this holdout matter.

"He sends me a contract for $15,000," said the left fielder, and naturally I send it back to him. I got $20,000 last season. I had a good year, all told, so why should I take a cut?

"Well, I go over to see him, today. He's willing to up me to $17,500, but I want the whole 20.

"He says he can't pay it; says the club lost money last year. Well, the way I look at it, that's his business, not mine.

"My business is to knock in runs, and I knock them in. If it's his business to make money, then let him make it.

"But he's not going to make me the goat.

"Look at it my way. I'm only 27, approaching the peak of my career.

"If I accept a slash now, what incentive have I to work my head off in that St. Louis heat is year, figuring all I'll get for it is another cut?"

Well, how about selling you? Brooklyn will pay you, if Rickey won't.

"I don't think he dares sell me," Ducky went on. "You know the fans didn't take any too kindly to the Dizzy Dean swap last year.

"If he lets me go, there's liable to be some more squawking. No I don't think he'll sell me. Not until the fans forget about Diz, anyway."

But what about the reports that Rickey himself was headed for Brooklyn to team up with McPhail. This might all be a ruse to ships you there ahead of him.

"I doubt it. If I'm not mistaken, Rickey is under a five-year contract which has several more years to run.

"His famous farm system hasn't been very productive of late, so he's just putting me through the wringer to make the books look good.

"I won't stand for it. Not at 27. If I was slipping, it would be different. But I still have my best years in front of me."

Kaplan Certain He Can Bat 'Kid'

Merry Mike Kaplan was laughing today over the fears of his followers who feel he's taking on more than he can handle at the Boston Arena Friday night when he mixes with Louis "Cocoa Kid" Hardwick in the main bout of a Goodwin A. C. boxing show scheduled for 10 rounds.

"I wouldn't go in there with the Cocoa Kid if I didn't think I could beat him. There just wouldn't be any sense stepping in to be slaughtered. I know I can beat him and I'll show the fans that I can Friday night."

Kilstar Retains Top in Betting

LONDON, March 21 (AP)— H. McNally's Royal Danieli and Mrs. Camille Evans' Royal Mail strengthened their positions in official callover for the Grand National steeplechase in Aintree Friday.

Dorothy Paget's Kilstar weakened in the market but remained the favorite at 7 to 1. There was more support however for Royal Danieli at 100 to 9 and Royal Mail at 100 to 6 than for the top favorite.

Sox Bosses Look for Big Year

SARASOTA, Fla., March 21 (AP)—It's a trifle disconcerting, like opening a pearl and finding an oyster, but the fact remains there is a team in the same league with the New York Yankees that is quite content with its lot, perhaps because it's quite a lot of team.

This charter member of the Optimist Club is the Boston Red Sox, and from the stocky, alert young president, Tom Yawkey, whose money doesn't keep him from being just one of the boys, down to the bat retriever everything is just lovely.

An Associated Press representative sat in the dugout shade, hard by the overworked water tank moist with its cold sweat, and talked with Yawkey, Skipper Joe Cronin and Moe Berg, that knowit-all boy, who really does, at that.

Out on the sunny, sandy field athletes of miscellaneous ages frolicked contentedly. There was Robert Moses Grove, a bigger, huskier, more chipper Grove than the fans have seen in a long time. There was James F. Foxx, survivor of more than 50 winter testimonial banaquets and anybody's idea of a ball player.

There was a long, slim youth, loose as a sack of beans, named Ted Williams, who probably will be a regular outfielder on his first trip up from Minneapolis.

FINGERS CROSSED

"So you want to know our troubles," said Yawkey with a cheerful grin, "Don't wish any on us. We haven't any right now. We've got a good team. We finished second last year and have added some men who should help."

Cronin squinted toward the outfield to see what Joe Vosmick did with a fly ball, and observed:

"We haven't any sore arm trouble. Quite the contrary. It's sore legs. This soft sand gives our ankles fits. Grove? He's gained 25 pounds since he stopped smoking last August, and is just right now. If he pitches once a week that will be enough for us.

"It's too early yet to tell much of anything about anybody or any team. I'd like to win these spring games, naturally, but I'm not going to break my neck doing it. We're just feeling our way along.

You get the idea that Yawkey, Cronin and the rest aren't just whistling their way past a cemetery when they speak well of their team. It was good last year. It should be better. Elden Auker and Jake Wade, obtained from Detroit, and Dennis Galehouse, from Cleveland, should help Grove, Jack Wilson, Jim Bagby and Fred Ostermueller considerably with the diamond work, and there is enough power at the plate to give the chuckers a break.

Foxx, in fact, is a one-man wrecking crew himself. He topped the league with .349 last year, and to show he didn't leave anything at the banquet tables but a good impression, he lofted one over the left field fence here, a mere 420 feet as the crow flies.

Anyway, it's refreshing to discover a team which isn't bothering about possible alibis. Everything is under control now, and if everything is just under at the end of the season that will be all right, too. It won't be because the Red Sox didn't try.

Pitt Coach to Greet Gridmen on Monday

PITTSBURGH, March 21 (INS)—Charles ("Chisel") Bowser—the seventh football coach in Pitt's history—today began his reign as successor to Dr. John B. ("Jock") Sutherland, who resigned a fortnight ago, by issuing a call for spring practice for next Monday.

Bowser's appointment, expected since Sutherland's sudden retirement, was confirmed last night by the board of trustees. He was given a three-year contract at an annual salary of $7500—roughly half of Sutherland's salary at the University of Pittsburgh.

Makes Bid for Pedro Montenez

WORCESTER, March 21—Promoter Jimmy Villa has offered Pedro Montenez, one of the leading welterweights in the world today, a guarantee of $1500 and 25 per cent of the gate to meet the winner of the Ralph Zannelli-Buster Carroll 10-round fight to be staged here at Mechanics Hall, Friday night.

Zannelli when informed that the winner may possibly exchange leather with Montenez was overjoyed. "This is just the chance I've been waiting for "chirped the Rhode Island Roughhouse Kid. "Just wait and see what happens to Carroll when I get at him Friday."

Fans Differ on Ability of Clubs

Season Passes Goal of Authors

The letters are still coming. Yes, piles on piles of them. One is for the Bees—the rest is for the Red Sox.

Red Sox and Bees fans are just sticking out their chins and telling the world how good their favorite team is.

So hot is their enthusiasm that there will be three pairs of tickets for the Bees, and three pairs of tickets for the Red Sox given to the writers of the best letters sent to me on the subject.

Just write your views on either side of the question at issue on a piece of paper and address it to Jack Conway, Boston American, Winthrop square, Boston.

Be Sure and keep your letter within 250 words, and write only on one side of the paper.

Here are some of the latest letters received:

March 20, 1939
Lynn, Mass.

Jack Conway:

I pick the Bees as a ball team that gives the fans the kind of a game they like to sit through, or to listen to over the radio.

Their pitching staff seems to me to be better than the Red Sox's.

In my estimation Garms, Cuccinello and our friend Miller will all be .300 hitters or better.

Lopez is the best catcher in the business. Lee Fette, Jim Turner and Danny MacFayden will take more games among them than any four Pitchers on the Red Sox team.

Everywhere you turn you hear somebody saying, "What a good game the Red Sox played," when the score was probably around 15 to 1, while the Bees have just played a game, that more than likely, went into extra innings with the score reading 3 to 2.

I often wonder why anyone wants to see such a one-sider game when they can see a good tight game such as the Bees can produce.

When I want to see a good game that's where I will go.

Respectfully,

LESTER WEST,
145 No. Common street, Lynn, Mass.

As to the controversy waging over the comparison between these two clubs, I do not think that there should be any doubt that the Red Sox are superior.

To begin with, Clancy, the heralded Irishman, has a rather warped idea concerning age. Joe Cronin has not yet left the period when he is playing his best ball. He has a good many more playing years ahead of him.

And could anyone who has had such a successful year as Jimmy Foxx had last year suddenly slip the next year and fail to produce, barring injuries?

Of course "Double X" will eventually fold up, as does everyone, but when that time arrives, Tom Yawkey will have a capable substitute to fill his shoes, such as Paul Campbell, now making a good impression in the Sox training camp.

Take the teams player for player. How many did the Bees have hitting .300 last season?

One—Debs Garms. And how many will hit that this season? No one can answer that at the present; but just now, Jimmy Outlaw is the most promising. And even he will find that a good batting average in the minors is a different story in the major circuits.

A lot is being made of Eddie Miller, brought up from Kansas City. His batting average was nothing out of the ordinary there, several points below .300.

The Bee fans will immediately come up with the fact that he is a brilliant fielder, but it a common fact that good infielders who cannot hit are dime-a-dozen.

The Red Sox have now a pitching staff that they can be proud of. And, what does a team with both hitting and pitching mean? With the spirit of Joe Cronin's boys, it means a pennant-winner.

I wish the Bees plenty of luck, but I am rather dubious as to their chances of finishing in the first division.

Summing things up, I'd rather have my money on the Red Sox. The Bees are greatly lacking in color and offensive strength.

Clancy had better stick to a sport that he known a little better.

Incidentally, make those tickets to good old Fenway Park.

GEORGE LEONARD,
46 Willow street, West Roxbury, Mass.

DOG RACE BILL IS UP TO TOBIN

Mayor Maurice Tobin today was confronted with a new decision on dog racing in Boston, following passage by the City Council for the second time of an order permitting the greyhounds to run in Boston Garden.

"I will act promptly," the mayor stated, but without giving any indication what his decision will be or when it is coming.

The new petition, filed by the Greyhound Racing Association, was approved, 15 to 3, by the council, aftermath of a ruling by the State Supreme Court which voided a similar approval granted several weeks ago.

The measure was ruled out on the grounds it was signed by Acting Mayor George A. Murray, president of the City Council, while Mayor Tobin was vacationing. It was stated that the acting mayor has authority to so act for the mayor only in cases of emergency, and that dog racing was not an emergency.

The three members who opposed the Garden petition were Councillors Chase, Langan and Shattuck. Those who voted to approve it were Councillors Agnew, Carey, Englert, Fitzgerald, Galvin, Hutchinson, Irwin, Kelly, Kerrigan, Lyons, McMahon, Rosenberg, Taylor, Sullivan and White.

The Greyhound Racing Corporation is seeking the right to stage dog racing in the Garden from April 18 through May 31. It has abandoned a previous plan to hold races there in the fall as well, since the Garden would not be available for the proposed period.

Mayor Tobin Will Greet Sportsmen

Mayor Maurice J. Tobin of Boston will welcome a large gathering of sportsmen and nature enthusiasts at the wildlife supper being held under the auspices of Massachusetts Conservation Council in the interests of National Wildlife Week, Thursday evening, at the Hotel Statler.

Fifteen organizations, including hunters and fishermen, mountain climbers, garden clubs, women's clubs and forestry experts comprise the council, which is the state unit of the National Wildlife Federation of over 36,000 clubs and over 2,000,000 members.

Ice Stars All Enter Gala Show at Garden

Many of Boston's figure skaters of note will be seen in the colorful and intricate Period Group number which will hold a very prominent place on the program of the annual charity ice carnival of the Skating Club of Boston—"Let's Go"—to be presented at the Boston Garden a week from next Friday and Saturday, March 31 and April 1.

Once again the Skating Club of Boston is staging this grand production for the benefit of the Convalescent Home of the Children's Hospital in Wellesley Hills. This will be the tenth consecutive year that these two organizations have been working together to derive benefit from the skating spectacle.

Rich in costume and historical setting, which will be filigreed in the radiance of a battery of colored spotlights, the Period Group number will primarily serve to feature the artistic solo offering of Robin Hood of St. Paul, Minn., and the internationally famous skating pair of Mme. Andree Joly and M. Pierre Brunet of France.

Young Robin Lee, who has held the United States men's singles figure skating championship since 1935 by virtue of truly marvelous skating, will make his first Boston appearance in several years. Betwen his talented footwork on the silver blades, which is more finished than ever before, and his pleasing boyish personality, young Lee will win new plaudits from an admiring public.

The international team of Mme. Joly and M. Brunet, however, will treat Boston spectators to an exhibition of the pairs skating for which they are so famous. This team, twice Olympic champions and four-time world pair titleholders, are generally recognized as the two individuals to whom honor is due for having set the style for pair skating as it is generally performed today. They will have a featured spot in the large group of waltzing skaters.
